B.C. COALITION MOVE IS MADE

First Steps Towards Union Government Seen in Visit to Mr. Bowser

First step by business interests towards forming a union government in British Columbia to end the present political and financial crisis at the Parliament Buildings, were seen in the visit paid yesterday afternoon by George McGreggor of the Victoria Tug and the Union Steamship Companies to W. J. Bowser, K.C., at the Bowser home, "Buncrana," on Rockland Avenue.

The visit was made following a conference here at the Chamber of Commerce of heads of Victoria industries and some other business men to discuss the crisis in affairs at the Parliament Buildings. Because of his wide business connections, as a leader in the Victoria Chamber of Commerce and president of Rotary, Mr. McGreggor was chosen to make the visit to "Buncrana."

"There is nothing to be given out to the newspapers about this," said Mr. McGreggor to-day. "Mr. Bowser and I are old friends and we were just having a little talk. We were just discussing the situation. The thing is that the province can't continue the way it is now in our provincial administration, so we are working along certain lines. We are merely trying to work out the best thing to do for the province. There is nothing to be said about it at this time. When things are ready we will let the newspapers know it all."

CHINA POLICY IN JEOPARDY

Armed Resistance Without Neglecting Diplomatic Methods, News Agency Says

Nanking, China, July 22 (Associated Press).—The Kuomintang official Chinese news agency reported to-day that armed resistance without neglecting diplomatic methods is the policy decided upon by the Nationalist Government with regard to what it termed a "Japanese invasion" of the province of Jehol.

The agency said the government had ordered Tang Yu-lin, Governor of Jehol Province, and Chang Hsiao-ling, former Manchurian war lord, to mobilize "strong forces" against the Japanese. At the same time protests were lodged at Tokyo and with the League of Nations.

A small Japanese expeditionary force was sent into Jehol several days ago. Japanese authorities said it was intended merely to rescue Ganshiro Shimoto, a former Japanese army officer, who had been captured by Jehol troops.

Solarium Patients Appeal For Boat

Ottawa Cheers As Premier and Thomas End "Humbug" Affair

British Press On Conference

Canadian Press
London, July 22.—The entire British press, giving greatest prominence to-day to the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa, was unanimous in recognition of the auspicious start that has been made. At the same time most of the great newspapers pointed out no judgment was possible until the conference has got down to concrete particulars.

"Premier Bennett believes in putting the cards on the table at once," said The Manchester Guardian. "The hand he has put down is at least a great deal better than that which Mr. Thomas (Secretary for Dominion) so justly castigated. (This referred to the Canadian Prime Minister's declarations at the opening of the last imperial conference.)

"One can form no opinion of the advantages of the Canadian plan until it is known more precisely what it involves." The Manchester Guardian added. "It remains to be seen whether Mr. Bennett's plan is really a good one, or very much on the fundamentally exclusive policy of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

"Perhaps the most cheering news was to hear so many delegates expressly dissociate themselves from the thesis that empire commerce can and should be carried on behind a fence (against foreign countries), and no speaker out of this more clearly than Mr. Bennett himself."

LONDON POST
Noting that Stanley Baldwin, leader of the British delegation, said complete empire free trade was not possible, The Daily Express says he would have added, "Yet." The Morning Post considers Prime Minister Bennett's speech distinguished by frankness, courage and enthusiasm—"all too rare in modern statesmanship." Mr. Bennett's speech was described as sympathetic but vague.

NEWS-CHRONICLE
Considered the first day's proceedings showed the frankness, sincerity and helpfulness which had been confidently anticipated in the message from His Majesty, while the Liberal News-Chronicle commented that whatever the prospects, there could be no doubt of the high spirit in which the delegates had entered their formidable task.

TRAIN WRECKED BY STALLED CAR

Harrisburg, Pa., July 22.—A Pennsylvania railroad passenger train was wrecked early to-day at Dauphin, fourteen miles north of here, as it struck an automobile stalled on the track. Four of the five cars left the rails and rolled over on their sides. Railroad officials said only three passengers were hurt, all slightly. The automobile apparently had been abandoned by its occupants after it stalled.

They "Make Up" Before Everybody at State Dinner to Imperial Economic Conference Delegates

Spirit of Forgiveness Prevails, Everybody Has a Grand Time and Even Premier Tolmie Allows Himself a Few Extra Chuckles

By ARCHIE WILLS
Staff Correspondent

Ottawa, July 22.—Premier Bennett of Canada and Rt. Hon. Jim Thomas, British Secretary for Dominion Affairs, have agreed on a truce in the "humbug" affair which has been rankling since the last Imperial Conference in London nearly two years ago.

It was then that Mr. Thomas in the British House of Commons made his "humbug" remark about Mr. Bennett's proposals. However, last night the two patched it up publicly at the State dinner given here by the Canadian government to the Imperial Economic Conference delegates and with countries on both sides of the Atlantic listening by radio.

As toastmaster, Mr. Bennett started out to call on the leaders of the nine delegations, with Mr. Baldwin as the British spokesman. However, he worked in a special toast for Mr. Thomas. The dinner guests caught the special significance of this compliment to Mr. Thomas.

"I forgive Mr. Bennett for anything he said about me," said Mr. Thomas, giving the whole affair a good-natured turn. The diners stormed their applause.

"The forgiving is mutual," Mr. Bennett interjected. And so with blessings and smiles all around the "humbug" incident was officially closed.

GENESIS OF AFFAIR RECALLED
In the lobbies of the Chateau Laurier, where the politicians were talking things over after the dinner, the details of the whole "humbug" affair were recalled and how Mr. Thomas said that Mr. Bennett had "put the cat among the pigeons" when the Canadian Premier launched his plea for empire preferential tariffs.

Plan For Unification of Scores of Eastern Roads Into Four Great Systems

Record Claimed By Air Service

San Francisco, July 22.—Varney Speed Lines laid claim to-day to the fastest transportation of any regular commercial line, with a mark of 4.1176 miles a minute in a flight July 9 from the San Francisco Bay airbase to Sacramento.

The air line distance is seventy miles and the time was 17 minutes from the takeoff to landing, slightly less than 248 miles an hour. The pilot, Vic Hogan, carried six passengers in the plane. Announcement of the record run was withheld pending a check to see if the time had been bettered in any part of the world at any time.

His brother, William Geoffrey Salmond, succeeded him as air marshal.

Interstate Commerce Commission of United States Yields on Some Points and Makes Suggestions to Clear Situation

PENNSYLVANIA LINE WOULD PREDOMINATE

Washington, July 22.—A new consolidation plan for the unification of scores of eastern United States railroads into four great systems now rests with the carriers.

It was put before them by the Interstate Commerce Commission, which sought by yielding on some points and making new suggestions to end years of wrangling over how consolidations should be effected to preserve competition, serve the public and save money.

By the new plan, carriers would be grouped under the Baltimore and Ohio Chesapeake and Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York Central. The Delaware and Hudson and the Seaboard Air Line would constitute independent systems, while the Pennsylvania would be forbidden entry into New England.

ATTITUDE INDEFINITE
What would be the carrier's final attitude toward the offered compromise could not be said. Officials of the Baltimore and Ohio and the New York Central found something worthy of commendation, but had not committed themselves definitely.

The new schedule would break up the proposed Washash-Seaboard system, abrogate two anti-trust decisions by authorizing the Pennsylvania to absorb the Washash and the Baltimore and Ohio to take in the Western Maryland.

As one reason for blocking Pennsylvania progress into New England, the commission said that of the 37,000 miles included in the consolidation, 31.5 per cent would go to the Pennsylvania, 24.5 to the Chesapeake and Ohio-Nickel Plate, 23.7 to the New York Central and 20.3 to the Baltimore and Ohio. The commission added:

"The Pennsylvania system will not only predominate in size but most likely in financial strength."

Cotter and the child are said to have good chances of recovery.

Germany Insists On Right of Equality

Declines to Participate in Further Disarmament Deliberations Unless Equal Rights With Nations Recognized

Violent Disagreement Between French and Italian Delegates at Inter-parliamentary Union Conference

Geneva, July 22.—Count Rudolf Naldony, Germany's delegate, informed the world disarmament conference to-day that his country will not participate in further deliberations after this summer's recess unless the conference clearly recognizes Germany's right to the position of equality among the other nations of the world.

"The right of equality," he said, "is a fundamental principle on which the League of Nations rests."

"If this conference wants to establish the rules and principles of general disarmament and at the same time exclude Germany or other states from the rules and principles, subjecting any state to discrimination, such an attitude would be incompatible with the League of Nations."

NO RACKET IN ARMY PENSIONS

Says Robert Hale of Pensions Adjustment Office of Canadian Legion

Vancouver, July 22.—"No foundation exists for statements which imply that there is a racket in army pensions," declared Robert Hale of the pensions adjustment office of Canadian Legion, Ottawa, in addressing Lions Club members at luncheon.

"The suggestion of fraud in the granting of pensions is unfair to the 78,000 returned men now on the list, as it throws the light of suspicion on them," the speaker stated.

Supporting his contention with statistics, he declared that of the 180,000 claims which have been adjusted since the inception of the Board of Pensions Commission, less than fifty were found to be fraudulent.

Mr. Hale asserted that the Canadian Legion is not in sympathy with any cases which can not be substantiated.

Letters Clear Reputation Of Robert Burns, The Poet

Robert Burns, the poet, has suffered from a bad moral reputation for generations, despite all that worshippers and various societies devoted to him could do to gloss it over.

Now a professor, instead of accepting the word of the critics, has gone back and dug out Burns's original manuscripts and published them in a $10 volume from the Oxford University Press. It has been found that editors in the past, thinking they were shielding Burns, have been suppressing and distorting biographical material about him. With the whole story now out and his love tendencies explained, Burns appears in a better light.

The story of the facts of this new book will be published as a feature of the Saturday Magazine Section of The Victoria Daily Times to-morrow.

Other features of the Saturday Magazine Section will include: How electrified homes of to-morrow may throw heat from the walls. Father Rosenthal, high priest, tells why he would abolish this "whole religious-political business."

HIAM RESIGNS RAILWAY POST

Assistant to President and Pacific Coast Head Leaves C.N.R.; To Abolish Office

Vancouver, B.C., July 22.—Word was received from Montreal to-day of the resignation of Col. T. A. Hiam from the position of assistant to the president of the Canadian National Railways at Vancouver.

It was further stated that in the interests of general economy the office would be abolished at the end of the current month.

The post was created in August, 1929, Col. Hiam being then appointed assistant to the president with headquarters at Vancouver, to look after the Pacific Coast interests of the company.

Col. Hiam has been absent on leave from the railway for several months serving on the commission of the League of Nations in Manchuria.

Col. Hiam originally joined the Grand Trunk Railway at Montreal in 1901 and later became vice-president of the Canadian Northern Railway. He held that post up to the time he went to the war. Immediately prior to rejoining the Canadian National Railways in 1928, he was for several years technical adviser for railway questions to the League of Nations at Geneva. Col. Hiam, it is understood, intends to continue his residence on the Pacific Coast.

German Takes Off On Repeat Flight

NEW FIELD TO SOON BE READY

Playground at Old McDonald Estate to Be One of Finest in City

One of the finest playing fields Victoria has ever had is nearing completion in James Bay and will be ready for games next spring. It was reported at the city engineer's department this morning.

The field, which was formerly part of the McDonald estate, is located between Oswego, Niagara and Simcoe Streets and is large enough to provide two full-size rugby football pitches. Clearing and grubbing of the land is practically finished. City Engineer F. M. Preston stated, with only one week's more work left. Seeding will be done in the fall and when the game season opens next spring the site will undoubtedly become one of the city's most popular playing fields.

The area now cleared is 500x500 ft. and takes in nearly the whole block between Simcoe and Niagara Streets. Provision has been made for the building of fences in the future, when the field may be Victoria's main playground.

Capt. von Gronau Flying From Germany Via Iceland and Montreal to Chicago

Flier Accompanied By Crew of Three on His Third Crossing of Atlantic

Wick, Scotland, July 22.—At 8.40 a.m. E.S.T., to-day Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau, flying from Germany to Chicago by way of Iceland, reported his position as 55 degrees 30 minutes north latitude and 2 degrees 15 minutes east longitude. This would place him at a point just east of the Orkney Islands.

Last Island of Byth, July 22 (Associated Press).—Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau, German aviator, and hero of two previous transatlantic flights from Germany, took off from here again to-day for Chicago.

He was accompanied in his seaplane, the Greenland Wal, by a crew of three, including a second pilot, a mechanic and wireless operator. His route will be substantially the same as that followed in his two previous flights in 1930 and 1931, by way of Iceland, Greenland and Labrador.

Rebel Forces In Brazil Defeated

Federal Troops Occupy City of Pouso Alegre, on San Paulo Border
Town of Capella Dairibeira Taken in Second Battle

Associated Press
Rio de Janeiro, July 22.—The government announced today that federal troops moving against the rebel forces in São Paulo state, had occupied the city of Pouso Alegre, in Minas Geraes, near the São Paulo border.

The rebels lost several killed and injured in the battle, it said, and abandoned a quantity of war materials.

A dispatch from São Paulo intercepted here said among those killed was Keno Seles, commander of the rebel troops at Pouso Alegre.

The battle took place in Minas Geraes state, near the São Paulo frontier, and extended a distance of sixty miles from Pouso Alegre to Ourofino. It lasted eight hours.

In another battle federal troops captured the town of Capella Dairibeira, opening a highway approach to São Paulo from the southern border. In lost five dead and five wounded. The rebel losses were heavier, and many prisoners were taken.

This morning the police here issued an order prohibiting street demonstrations.

Buenos Aires, July 22.—Public tension was acute in six South American countries today, and it ranged all the way from international dispute to armed civil warfare. The countries involved were:

Brazil, in the throes of civil war precipitated by a demand by the State of São Paulo for speedy return to constitutional government.

Bolivia and Paraguay, aroused against each other anew in their bitter fifty-year-old dispute which has made Chaco territory between them famous.

Chile, with a new Socialist government under Carlos Davila, and confronted with a possible crisis in its cabinet.

Peru, just past two revolts within the month and planning military expeditions "in order to fight and destroy those who are able to carry on such outrages."

Argentina, slightly involved in the Chaco dispute, because her border touches that jungle wilderness, and worried with political unrest.

Brazil's civil conflict continued to ripen as federal forces of the provisional president, Getulio Vargas, increased their troops north and south of the rebel state of São Paulo for a major offensive.

Anti-Paraguayan war fever in Bolivia reached the highest pitch in history of the Chaco dispute this week, when the Paraguayan captured for Carlos Antonio Lopez in the Chaco. São Paulo, the capital, that a state of siege was declared.

Paraguay, which terminated peace negotiations in Washington when Bolivia occupied that northern outpost recently, regarded the "revenge capture" as restoring the former status quo, and ordered her conciliators to remain in the United States.

CHAPLAINS IN CHILEAN ARMY ARE SUSPENDED

YOUTH SLAIN AS STRIKERS BATTLE OHIO MINE TROOPS

War scenes were re-enacted in Ohio's coal strike zone when new violence, costing the life of an eighteen-year-old boy and the dynamiting and firing of two railroad bridges, brought national guardsmen into action. When a crowd of 1,000 pickets defied authorities escorting workers to the Provident mine in Belmont County, troops were rushed to the scene in an armored car. Picture shows guardsmen with drawn bayonets after repulsing an attack. Clouds of tear gas can be seen in the rear.

sentiments of national honor and international justice.

The draft resolution with which the conference proposes to terminate the first phase of its work takes no account of the German position, he said.

USEFUL WORK IMPOSSIBLE
"The German Government considers that this uncertainty regarding one of the fundamental problems of disarmament makes any useful work impossible."

"Therefore my government insists that these doubts be eliminated by recognition without delay of the equality of all nations in the matter of national security and in the application of all disarmament provisions."

In order to make certain that the German demands shall be understood, the German government is ready to begin immediate negotiations with any interested states.

"My government," said the spokesman, "must make it clear that from today on it cannot pledge itself to continue collaboration here unless a satisfactory solution of this decisive point is found before the conference resumes its activity."

VIOLENT SCENE
Geneva, July 22.—A session of the Inter-parliamentary Union in the next room to the World Disarmament Conference broke up today in a violent disagreement between the French and Italian delegates.

The controversy arose over who was most familiar with international law and above the tumult the French delegates shouted "Assassins of Matteotti!"

(The slaying of Giacomo Matteotti, Socialist deputy, was one of the sensational events of the early Fascist regime in Italy.)

General Italo Balbo, head of the Italian delegation at the Disarmament Conference, rushed from the conference hall to the scene next door where disorder reigned.

The police were called in to restore order.

It developed that the French Socialist deputy, Renaudel, and the Italian Deputy, Costamagna, had started the trouble.

Renaudel objected to the Italian's attempt to instruct the meeting on Parliamentary procedure. Costamagna protested loudly and there followed an uproar during which Renaudel shouted: "Down with the assassins of Matteotti!"

Some blows were struck before the disorder was ended.

ADJOURNS UNTIL AUTUMN
Geneva, Switzerland, July 22.—The general commission of the disarmament conference today adopted by a majority and without change the draft declaration with which the conference will adjourn for a recess until autumn. The resolution as a whole will be discussed this afternoon.

During the debate, Edouard Benes of Czechoslovakia apologized for his assertion two days ago that bombardment from the air is barbarous and inhuman, explaining that he had meant to refer specifically to the bombing of civil populations.

Sir John Simon, head of the British delegation, expressed satisfaction with the explanation. Following M. Benes' previous remarks, the Air Ministry had protested that British war flyers never had been guilty of barbarous actions.

Berlin, July 22.—Wolfgang von Groddeck, German ambassador in London, reported by wireless at 2:30 p.m. (E.S.T.) today that he had passed over the Shetland Islands and should reach Iceland, his first stop, before nightfall.

Ottawa Cheers As Premier and Thomas End "Humbag" Affair

Mr. Bennett's offer, as analyzed in the House of Commons by Mr. Thomas the other British put a tax on foodstuffs Canada would give Britain an additional preference of 10 per cent, so that an existing preference of 30 per cent would become 33 per cent.

The way this appeared to some on this side was voiced by The Ottawa Citizen which referred to the "fraud of first raising the Canadian tariff sufficiently high to keep out British goods under a policy of Canada, first and then adding another 10 per cent against foreign countries and calling it preference."

"In return for this horse-trading bargain the British people are required to impose customs duties on foodstuffs," the newspaper went on.

STIRRED BENNETT TO ULTIMATUM
When the Bennett proposals were under discussion in the British House of Commons, Mr. Thomas, replying to Mr. Baldwin's motion in the House censuring the Labor government for refusing to consider the Bennett offer, said:

"We did not accept them for the simple reason that there never was such a thing as this proposal."

Of course, to have his words spoken in such a way by a British minister and in the House of Commons annoyed Mr. Bennett so much that he issued this ultimatum: "If Canada's proposal is thus to be contemptuously rejected, Canadians can only accept and act upon the rejection by embracing the other means at hand of furthering their economic position in the world."

ANOTHER GOOD OMEN
Mr. Bennett rejoiced when the Labor government went out of office and the National government came into power under Tory leaders who had accepted the Bennett proposal in principle, because it was this new government he would have to deal with at the Ottawa conference. But when Britain announced that it was sending Mr. Thomas on his delegation as right-hand man to Mr. Baldwin, everybody began to ask how Mr. Bennett would like it.

Well, it was all washed out good humoredly and big-heartedly yesterday evening. "Jim" Thomas was so good that even Premier Tolmie at his table had to allow himself a few extra chuckles. It makes another good omen for the conference and Ottawa's cup of joy is overflowing.

BENNETT ADOPTS DUNNING BUDGET

Says Hon. Harry C. Nixon, Commenting on Conference Address

Brantford, Ont., July 22.—Hon. Harry C. Nixon, Progressive leader in the Ontario Legislature, commenting on the address of Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett at the opening of the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa, said: "He has practically adopted the Dunning budget and has abandoned the 'Canada First' policy on which he went to the electorate in the last election. We all held that this Dunning budget policy was the only policy, that of extension of trade within the empire, and realized that in this lay our only hope."

Soviet in Favor Of Reduction Clause

Geneva, July 22.—Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet Russia's representative at the World Disarmament Conference, emerged yesterday as an advocate of the basic principles in President Hoover's programme calling for one-third reduction in all armaments, and Hugh Gibson, chief of the United States delegation, appeared in the role of opponent. The Russian demanded that the declaration, which is to be adopted before the conference adjourns until fall, be revised to include a specific recommendation for arms cuts of one-third. He forced a roll call and, with sixteen members abstaining, the amendment was defeated, 30 to 5.

Subsequently the United States delegate's vote was explained by the assertion that he already had been committed to the draft text of the declaration. This text was assailed from many quarters, but important portions of it, calling for substantial reduction in air forces and land armaments, survived in tact. Sections of the declaration asserting the primary objective of the conference was to reduce means of attack, prohibiting air attacks against civilians and abolishing all aerial bombardment, with certain reservations, were among those approved. To-morrow the conference will go ahead with other details of the declaration.

DEATHS CAUSED BY HEAT IN U.S.

New York, July 22.—The Appalachian watershed smoked like a furnace today, its residents still awaiting showery weather.

Temperatures ranged from 100 degrees at Charlotte and Raleigh, N.C., down into the 90s. High humidity abetted the oppressive heat.

Deaths due to the heat totaled thirty-six throughout the land. Lightning and drowning claimed at least twenty-six others.

Reorganization Plan For Fraser Companies

Canadian Press
Montreal, Que., July 22.—The proposed plan of reorganization for the Fraser Companies Limited was accepted here yesterday evening by the meeting of holders of the $3,000,000 6 per cent secured notes of the Fraser Companies. A vigorous opposition was led against the plan by the note-holders' protective committee headed by Henry Weinfield, K.C.; Arthur Jones, Charles Derandau, K.C., all of Montreal, and Messrs. Hamilton Cassels and E. A. Harris, both of Toronto. The main contention of the opposition was that they lacked sufficient information about the status of the Restigouche Company, its subsidiary. The note holders will, according to the plan, receive par for par of a new issue of mortgage bonds secured by the Restigouche Company.

AIR MAIL BOXES APPEAR

FRAUGHT WITH POSSIBILITIES

Conference Gives Greater Buoyancy to General Outlook, Montreal Bank Says

Canadian Press
Toronto, July 22.—In Canada, as elsewhere, the Imperial Economic Conference now meeting at Ottawa is regarded as "a high adventure fraught with possibilities of great advantage to the British Empire primarily and to world conditions," says the monthly news letter of the Bank of Montreal issued today.

"Difficulties in the path of the conference admittedly exist, but confidence of worthwhile accomplishments is firmly held," the letter declares.

Various factors combine to produce a greater buoyancy in the general outlook than has been observed for a long time past. Outweighing all other considerations is the Imperial Conference, the bank says.

"The principal other factor making for a brightening of the outlook is that the prairie provinces approach the critical period of harvesting notably better than for the last three years, and that despite a late season in some other parts, the crops of the Dominion generally give promise of satisfactory yields. The price of wheat continues low, but the cost of production in the Canadian west will also be exceptionally low this season, and a bountiful yield of grain should change for the better conditions in all parts of the country."

DETROIT HERO—Hero of the fierce gun fight which resulted in the killing of Edward "Fat" McCarthy, notorious gangster, was Detective Harold Moore (above) of New York. Falling wounded with three shotgun slugs in his body, Detective Moore returned the fire of McCarthy and killed the gangster with a single shot. With another New York detective and two state troopers, Moore had boldly cornered McCarthy and his gang in a farmhouse near Albany, N.Y.

REGINA DEMANDS FULLEST INQUIRY

Into Possibilities of Preferential Tariff For Wheat and Import Quotas

Regina, Sask., July 22.—Saskatchewan's brief to the Imperial Conference asks that the "fullest inquiry" be made into the possibilities of a preferential tariff for wheat, import quotas or any other solution of the wheat marketing problem. It recommends the amendment of regulations governing the entry of Canadian live cattle into Great Britain to conform with those now applicable to the admission of Irish cattle. It further recommends that an agreement with shipping companies be made whereby the companies provide full equipment to handle live cattle and that commission firms should charge a uniform rate at the various ports in the United Kingdom. Establishment of an inter-empire market board financed by the empire is recommended by the board to receive the fullest support in the collection of an interchange of technical statistics and commercial information.

The Saskatchewan brief endorses British films and declared the belief the number of now shown in Canada could be increased to advantage. Touching on the mining the brief recommended that the individual government at the conference takes steps to assist and hasten the completion of the survey of mineral resources of the empire as proposed by the Empire Mining and Metallurgical Congress which met in South Africa in 1930. It goes on to recommend that the exchange be stabilized. Fishing and lumbering industries are given brief mention.

MACDONALD ON PACIFIC TRADE

B.C. Judge Addresses Lions' Club Convention at Los Angeles

Los Angeles, July 22.—Friendly trade relations between all nations on the Pacific Ocean was urged at the International Association of Lions' Clubs' convention yesterday by Mr. Justice M. A. Macdonald of British Columbia, who visualized continued expansion of commerce.

"In spite of unsettled conditions in China, trade between the United States, Canada, China and Japan is constantly growing," he said. "When conditions in the Orient are more settled, commerce in the Pacific basin will grow to tremendous proportions." The convention closed with the election of officers and the selection of the 1933 convention city.

POOR "ME!"

A gas station proprietor of Memphis, Tenn., W. L. Cooper, had an eye for business as well as for statistics when he put the above sign in front of his filling station. With gasoline at 12 cents a gallon, he enumerated the various taxes on the sign as follows: Gas at the tank car costs 5 cents a gallon; state (Governor Horton) tax is 7 cents; federal (Hooper) tax is 1 cent; freight is 2 cents, and "me," Cooper himself, realized the enormous profit of 3 cents on a gallon.

THE CONFERENCE UNDER WAY

WHILE THE SPEECHES AT THE opening of the Ottawa conference necessarily were in more or less general terms, there ran through most of them a common note of appreciation of the interdependence of the world in relation to trade and commerce. The speakers made it plain that they would strive to improve conditions in this respect between the various parts of the empire, but that what they would do in that direction would be subject to the vital necessity of maintaining friendly relations with the nations which are not within the Britannic orbit, and which comprise three-fourths of the human race. It was clear that they were intent on allaying any apprehension elsewhere that an empire economic bloc was in contemplation, which, of course, would provoke counter-alliances and perpetuate in acute form the existing economic depression.

Mr. Bennett, whose speech was more detailed than those of most of the other delegates, emphasized the fact that even counting India the conference represented only a fourth of the population of the world. Mr. Baldwin was significantly quite explicit and indicated the attitude of the British delegates in the following admonitory words:

Reverting to empire trade, we hope that as a result of this conference we may be able, not only to maintain existing preferences but in addition to find ways of increasing them. There are two ways in which increased preference can be given—either by lowering barriers among ourselves or by raising them against others.

We can not isolate ourselves from the world. No nation or group of nations, however wealthy and populous, can maintain prosperity in a world where depression and impoverishment reign. Let us therefore, first of all, aim at the lowering rather than the raising of barriers, even if we can not fully achieve our purpose now, and let us remember that any action we take here is bound to have its reactions elsewhere.

It is evident from this comment, which was not lightly made and which in other terms has been featured by the Prince of Wales, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald and others in their reference to the conference, that Great Britain, mindful of her position as a world trader, is determined that nothing shall be done which will imperil the commercial structure she has erected over many years. Indeed, it is patent that the deliberations of her delegates will be conducted with an inner eye upon the world economic conference which Great Britain is arranging for the fall, and which, it is hoped, will result in the lowering everywhere of the barriers to international trade. Incidentally, Mr. Baldwin's declaration that empire free trade was impracticable was obviously designed for the edification of Lord Beaverbrook and his school. The Australian and South Africa spokesmen also sang the song of economic goodwill to the rest of the world, the latter no doubt with the recollection of the treaty South Africa recently negotiated with Germany by which certain favored-nation privileges were agreed to.

The tone of Mr. Bennett's speech was in marked contrast with the outburst with which he upset matters at the conference in the Old Country in 1930. There was no "blasting" ultimatum, no take-it-or-leave-it demand, no provocation calculated to arouse controversy. In this respect the Canadian Prime Minister's opening remarks were quite beyond reproach and were designed to create from the start an atmosphere of harmony among the delegates. At the banquet yesterday evening he even initiated a pleasing hatchet-throwing ceremony with the redoubtable J. H. Thomas, British Secretary of State for the Dominions, and henceforth, as far as these two are concerned, we may regard the word "humbug" as almost a term of endearment.

In substance, too, Mr. Bennett's speech furnished a contrast with the terms of his demands in London two years ago. He has extensively amplified his policy of preference, and now offers to expand the free list for British imports, maintain existing preferences and give tariff concessions to certain selective other products which will not injure "efficient Canadian industry." In return he asks for Canada the maintenance of the existing preference for Canadian exports to Great Britain and the other dominions, and its extension to more Canadian products. Briefly this means that Mr. Bennett will give preferential tariff privileges to British manufactured goods which would not injure Canadian industry, in return for a preference in the British market for Canadian farm products, lumber and other products.

Apart from his reference to the free list, however, the Canadian Premier did not intimate whether his proposal of tariff preference for British imports would mean a lowering of the existing duties or the maintenance of those duties and an increase of the tariff on similar imports from foreign countries. His policy in London in 1930 called for the preservation of the existing duties which a short time before had been hoisted, and a ten per cent increase on foreign goods, in return for a duty-free preference on Canadian products in Britain. The British proposed at that time what Mr. Baldwin says should be done now, the reduction of the Canadian duties on British goods. If Mr. Bennett adopts the British formula he will sharply reduce the duties on British manufactured products below their present rates. There is no practicable preference if Canada's tariff is higher against foreign products as long as it remains high against British imports. This was the rock on which the recent conference between British and Canadian cotton industrialists split. The British delegation declared that any preference which did not involve the lowering of the present sky-high Canadian tariff against British goods was useless to them, no matter how much higher the duties might be against foreign goods.

Before long we shall know just what form Mr. Bennett's proposal will take. If it shall conform to the prescription given by Mr. Baldwin, the proceedings of the conference will be appreciably simplified, there will be a general downward revision of inter-empire tariffs, and the way will be cleared for a general world movement in the direction of freedom of international trade.

THE BOURBONS AT WORK

TWO DISPATCHES FROM CONTINENTAL Europe to-day throw further light on what is taking place in Germany and what recent incidents portend. The more significant of the two comes from Geneva. It is an announcement that Germany's delegate has informed the World Disarmament Conference that his country will not participate in further deliberations after this summer's recess unless the conference clearly recognizes Germany's right to a position of equality among the other nations of the world. The other tells us that the Chief of the Berlin Police was taken out of his bed at 5 o'clock this morning by a squad of soldiers and led away to the military prison on suspicion of actions in contravention of the presidential decree imposing martial law in Berlin. He is described as "one of the most popular members of the police force."

Any speculation on what may lie behind the dispatch from Geneva can be based only on the specific action of the Von Papen ministry—with the complete sanction of President von Hindenburg—in imposing a military dictatorship on the state of Prussia and the peremptory dismissal from office of the constitutional government of that state. Prussia, with its 112,630 square miles out of a total of 181,723 for the whole of the German Reich, and a population of approximately 40,000,000 out of a total of about 64,000,000, includes the greater portion of the country's natural wealth and embraces all its greatest industrial areas. From Berlin in the east to Essen in the west, from Hanover in the north to Frankfurt-am-Main in the south—the cities mentioned are merely pivotal points—the power of the military dictatorship will be felt by the people as they go about their ordinary avocations; but the same power will be in a position to command every form of industry to conform to its will—always providing the workers do not take the bit in their teeth and defy the decree of Junkerdom.

Is it not reasonable to assume, therefore, that in the light of Von Papen's partial surrender to the demands of Hitler, in the light of Hitler's and Junkerdom's hatred of France—with the knowledge, too, that France will never agree to equality of armament with Germany by any form of undertaking—the "Monocle Ministry" will proceed as quickly as possible to increase the country's stock of armaments? No doubt the government would point to the growing menace of Communism as its justification for any preparation it might deem necessary to combat it. It might say that the establishment of a military dictatorship in Prussia is its own business, that the effect it may produce on certain sections of the people is also its own business. Nor is there much that could be done about it if it did so. Nor could any other nation reasonably interfere unless the mess which might be created were to spill over international boundaries.

Let it be understood that all this is on the assumption that the honeyed words which passed between the Premier of France and the Chancellor of Germany prior to the tearing up of the Treaty of Versailles at Lausanne were merely suited—on Germany's part—to an occasion which Germany intended to turn wholly to her own account, and that the circumstances which have developed in the meantime have changed the official outlook at Berlin, since it is obvious that Von Papen, willingly or unwillingly, is in the hands of such out-and-out militarists and monarchists as General Kurt von Schleicher and others of his ilk. It is also based on the assumption that there appears to be a tentative, if temporary, working arrangement between the ministry and the Fascist leader, despite the latter's denunciation of the recent economic decrees.

The real test will come, however, when the result of the elections for a new Reichstag, to be held on July 31, are known. Von Papen's course indicates that he and his ministry intend to remain in control at all costs. Is there anything to suggest now that they are really likely to be influenced by any election which does not give them enough followers to carry on? And if the support which Hitler was able to command at the recent presidential election run-off means anything at all, it means that he ought to be able to elect at least half of the 577 members who constitute the Reichstag. But if he elects only one-third, he would have a following much larger than the Socialists had after the last election—their total was 143—which enabled them to control the business of forming the new government. In either case he would present Von Papen with a nice little problem to decide. For as sure as night follows day, if Adolf Hitler can not for the time being be President of the German Republic, he will certainly want to be its Chancellor if the popular vote shows he has any valid claim to that position.

Speculation at this point is not easy. An open clash between Hitler and his brown-shirted army, now permitted to parade by Dictator von Papen, might mean a victory for the militarist factions, dependent upon the support they are able to gain between now and July 31. However, the odds would seem to be in Hitler's favor. What then of the moderate elements, the men and women of democratic thought? Will they be forced, in self-defence, to throw in their lot with the Communists? This is not an inspiring picture. Yet there is one certain feature of it. Dictatorships, sooner or later, provoke revolution. The ministry now in power at Berlin and dominating Prussia is composed of a set of Bourbon minds. Talleyrand said of the Bourbons that they had forgotten nothing and learned nothing. The German people will deal with their own Bourbons in good time.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

RETURN CARGOES
 The Toronto Star

An organization is being formed in Winnipeg to promote trade via Hudson Bay. And trade means trade—shipments in as well as shipments out. One of the obstacles to trade via the new port is the absence of "in" shipments. It is now realized in the west—if it was not realized before—that ships and railway trains cannot pay their way if they run full in one direction but empty in the other.

A THOUGHT

He hath filled the hungry with good things; and the rich he hath sent empty away.—Luke 1:53.
 Generosity is more charitable than wealth.—Joseph Roux.

Loose Ends

The dark young man requested it—and so I reveal how we cut out the two wild steers—or the nice quiet mares—and were bitterly disillusioned on the open range.

By H. B. W.

BLAME THE dark, handsome young man in this office for it. When I came in yesterday morning he paused in his usual job of interviewing hundreds of little boys who want to become aviators and big men who want to become premiers, and he made the remarkable request that I should tell him something more about my recent visit to the wild, wild west. I was taken aback, as you may imagine, since I had thought the public's interest in the wild, wild west had died out long ago. Perhaps it is confined now to romantic young men, and I must disabuse even him. I must tell him about the thundering herd which has lost all its thunder.

WELL, THEN, when my friend the rancher asked me to go with him and cut out a couple of wild steers, I said good-bye to my wife and family affectionately, like a man who goes on a mission which probably will prove fatal. I didn't know what cutting out a couple of wild steers meant, but I judged it would be pretty serious; that is for the steers, not for me. So the rancher went into his big corral, where he had recently impounded a band of mares from the range. He said we would each ride a nice, quiet mare. All the mares were quiet, he said. I judged that by the fact that they were all churning about the corral in a cloud of dust, standing on their hind legs and clapping at the fence bars with their front ones. I began to think that cutting out a couple of wild steers might be serious for me, not for the steers.

THE RANCHER waded boldly into the corral with a long lasso made of rawhide which, by the way, he had lubricated with a piece of fat cut out of the belly of a steer. (The steer was dead.) Nothing, he said, will lubricate a rawhide rope except this particular piece of fat. He waded into the corral and began to chase the nice quiet mares. They began going around in a circle just like the wooden horses on a merry-go-round, but these mares weren't wooden. I could tell that by the way they squealed. Presently the rancher twisted his rope and landed it neatly around a mare's neck and, quick as a flash, he wanted to know where I was going. He wanted to know where I was going. I shouted back that he had better consult his nice quiet mare. With remarkable perception, he judged that I was not altogether in control of the situation, so he set out in pursuit on another nice, quiet mare.

ANYWAY, HE said this was the quietest mare he had and he would saddle her for me. He saddled her while I hid behind a corner. But no sooner had she felt the saddle on her back than she began to roll on it systematically. She got tired of that after a while, however, and eventually my friend managed to get his foot into one stirrup to accustom her to the idea. Finally he rode her about the stable yard and turned her over to me. Well, I got on and decided to leave the rest to the mare. She took her responsibilities seriously. She pranced about the stable yard, tried to brush me off gently against the side of the barn and then lit off at a smart gallop up the road. The rancher yelled that this was the wrong way and wanted to know where I was going. I shouted back that he had better consult his nice quiet mare. With remarkable perception, he judged that I was not altogether in control of the situation, so he set out in pursuit on another nice, quiet mare.

THIS PLAN wasn't altogether sound, because my mare conceived the foolish notion that it was a race. Mind you, it's easy to ride a horse when it's going fast. After two or three rounds I felt it smooth out into an easy pace until it is as easy as a rocking horse. Eventually, however, by an encircling manoeuvre, my friend managed to get ahead of us and then my nice, quiet mare turned about and started in the opposite direction. This suited the rancher, for we were now in a trap in the general direction of the wild steers.

AFTER A WHILE the two mares trotted and slowed down to a nice trot. I thought this was going to be fine, but I soon discovered that a nice trot is the supreme punishment which horse flesh can inflict. Riding a mile at a trot, I calculated by mental arithmetic, is equal to thirty consecutive spankings of the old-fashioned sort which used to be delivered in the woodshed and better get out of there as soon as you can. The punishment of the trot, I may say, is delivered on precisely the same place, only harder.

SO WE RODE boldly across the range, the rancher and I, across miles of rolling bunchgrass and sage brush, ringed around with mountains of blue and white, in a crystal sunshine and a crisp air such as you never know down here, for we were exactly one mile up from sea level. We rode and rode, but it was almost dusk before we came across the wild steers. Here, thought I, is where manhood and horsemanhood are put to the acid test, and by this time I had neither. Well, we closed on the wild steers, a hundred or so of them, red, evil-looking devils with scowling white faces and eyes set deep in their skulls, and each with his left ear cut half off, to distinguish him from the steers of the next ranch. (They cut so much of their steers off, they cut so many little tassels or "wattles" into the loose flesh to mark them that I sometimes wondered whether there would be any steer left to mark after a while.)

THE RANCHER pointed to two fat-looking fellows in the middle of the herd. He said we would proceed to cut them out. I prepared for the worst and said I would die game. So he dug spurs into his horse's ribs, he dashed headlong into the middle of the herd.

I expected they would turn and demolish him, horse and all, but these wild steers were the saddest disappointment of my life. They turned and bounded off like jack rabbits, heads down, tails up. Wheeling and twisting like a toe dancer, my friend's horse started to head the two selected steers to one side. Then they bolted in opposite directions. I gathered that this was where I came in and I rallied around with valor, which surprised my friend. It also surprised me. I didn't tell him that I couldn't help it. My mare, you see, was trained to this game. She knew what to do even if I didn't. In a flash she was out in pursuit of the black steer, and my friend shouted encouragement. He seemed to imagine I had something to do with it.

A WAY WE went over the boundless Cariboo. I think we must have covered most of it in the first ten minutes. We went down hill and up hill. We leaped over irrigation ditches and slid down clay banks. We lashed through clumps of poplar which snapped against my face. After the first few minutes I closed my eyes, because it was easier on the nerves that way. You couldn't see what was ahead. Then of a sudden we stopped and I found myself in uncomfortable proximity to the pommel, which has no connection about stirring below the belt. But we had got our steer. Yes, sir, we had got our steer, and my friend had brought his alongside and both were headed in the direction of the ranch.

HERE WAS the bitterest disillusionment of all. The wild steers, the dangerous, snorting, fighting wild steers of the open range were ambling along as peacefully as milk cows and seemed very tired. At the ranch everybody had waited out on the veranda to see us come home in triumph. They had expected us to come thundering home in a cloud of dust, behind a hundred animals breathing red fire. When we appeared at the crest of the hill in the twilight, our horses walking slowly behind two poor old steers, who limped painfully with heads bowed almost to the ground, the entire ranch company laughed until they cried. No use to tell them of our wild ride across the range. No use to tell them how we cut out the steers in peril of our lives. They said we were brave to bind two poor old broken-down cows (they were wrong about the sex, but no matter) until they could hardly walk. And when I saw the steers next day, stripped of their skins, stripped of their leaders, mere beef for the market, I felt that the cutting out had, perhaps, gone a little too far.

Twenty-five Years Ago To-day

JULY 22, 1907

(From The Times Files)

San Francisco—One hundred and fifty people were drowned in one of the worst maritime disasters on the Pacific Coast, which took place off Shelter Bay, near Eureka, Calif., when the steamer San Pedro collided with the steamer Columbia. The survivors number about 100.

Cecil Doutré, superintendent of wireless stations for the Dominion Government, left to-day on the steamer Quigara to inspect wireless sites for his department.

The sockeye run is now commencing and several good catches are reported from the traps on the West Coast.

Riots were reported to-day in Seoul and several people were killed.

Weather forecast for Victoria and vicinity: Moderate to fresh southerly winds, fine to-day and Tuesday; not much change in temperature.

Victoria Horticultural Society will hold their annual flower show in the Drill Hall on August 7 and 8.

EDUCATION

To the Editor:—Many of the outstanding men and women in all ages have been those whose achievements were wrought through their own indomitable energy and perseverance. Because circumstances were not too easy for them they overcame obstacles to success and valued what they had gained accordingly. In short, they learned the lesson of life in the great school of experience and endeavor. One of these conquerors was Charles Dickens who in "Hard Times" gives us a useful pointer:

"The man who has hit it," returned Mr. B. "Then I agree with you, you have found it out at last, have you? Education: I will tell you what Education is: to be tumbled out of doors and to be able to get on the street without the least allowance of everything, except blows. That's what I call Education."

A MISTAKE

To the Editor:—It is understood that the Parks Commission intend to remove in no distant future some or all of the chestnut trees now standing on the Cook Street boulevards. These trees, however, are from an aesthetic point of view one of the greatest assets our beautiful city has, and their preservation is a matter of grave concern to all nature lovers and especially to those who live on the adjacent street, or in the vicinity. Through their removal Cook Street for many years to come, would lose its outstanding character and chief attraction, as the saplings which are intended to replace the magnificent trees standing there now would take at least fifteen to twenty years to grow to any appreciable size.

In view of these facts a petition is to be addressed to the Parks Commission for the preservation of these splendid trees, and all those interested are asked to sign the petition forms either at The Times office or The Colonist office.

It also has been suggested to form a society for the "Preservation of the Nature Beauties of Victoria," and those in favor of this scheme will kindly sign, also, a second sheet to the effect: A. B. VIVENOT.

THE PROPER WAY

To the Editor:—We quite often hear these days of a group of men chosen to go to Geneva, Switzerland, to try to establish peace among nations by making foreign alliances. Since taking a group of lessons from a spiritualist medium, I am not much surprised to believe it does much good. His lessons are indeed by many scholars. Establishing a large army and navy by one nation arouses suspicion in others that the real object of that military preparation is aggression. To keep on the safe side, the other nations believe they must make similar preparation.

Foreign alliances have the same effect. When two or more nations enter into a military alliance those nations outside the alliance suspect designs upon them. They try to meet it by counter alliances, which, by preventing trouble, generally increase it. War, I have been taught, has its origin in thought. The wrong belief of the objective mind that war cannot be avoided is the cause of the thought on which the subjective mind acts in creating war.

Moses and different prophets of the Bible taught the same thing, warning the people against heathen practices of unjust dealings for property and keeping large armies and making foreign alliances for safety. If following the instructions of Moses and Jesus would secure all blessings to Israel, why should we not secure them the same way? We have surely a lot to learn.

Let us try to study God's plan of things with open minds. The Great Teacher told us "He that heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him to a wise man who built his house upon a rock."

"A THINKER"

Oh, dear, what can the matter be? Dear, dear, where can the Premier be? Oh, dear, what can the trouble be? To-morrow, where can the Premier be?

He promised to bring us a bunch of nice pickings. Good prices for eggs and for hogs and for chickens. And maybe a sack full of treasury shillings.

But still he stays on at the Fair. The Kidd report's waiting, the cabinet quaking. Long distance is ringing, and telegrams winging. The public's debating, they think he is taking. Oh, Doctor, come back from the Fair.

Oh, dear, what can the matter be? Dear, dear, where can the Premier be? Oh, dear, what can the trouble be? Perhaps there's no job at the Fair. "VICTORIAN."

BIKE RIDERS FUND MOUNTS
 Nearly $200 Collected From Citizens For Expenses of a Rush and Robbins

To repay the two Victoria sportsmen who advanced the sum of $100 to Lew Rush and Glen Robbins, Victoria bike riders on the Canadian Olympic team, for expenses to make the trip to California, Victoria citizens had donated a total of $171 to-day.

The sum necessary to send the riders to the games was advanced before the boys left on Tuesday evening and efforts are being made to make good the sum furnished for them by the two sportsmen.

FORSYTH IN FINE BATTLE

Vancouver, July 22.—Jack Forsyth, the Vancouver fireman, and John Grandovich, Chicago, stole the spotlight on yesterday evening's wrestling show when they grappled four of the most interesting rounds seen here for some time, to a no-fall draw.

Bob Kruse and Leo Pappalano each secured a fall in one of the five-round headline bouts, while Ted Thye, threw Rut La Dite over the ropes in the third round of the other co-headliner and the New Yorker was unable to continue. Scotty Marks, Britannia Beach, and Norm Woods, Vancouver, finished all square in the three-round preliminary, neither man being able to secure a fall.

Forsyth and Grandovich were so evenly matched in strength, despite an advantage in favor of the Chicagoan in the weights, that each was able to break the many holds clamped on by his opponent.

Both men gave a wonderful demonstration of strength in the fourth round, when they got out of double elbow and body presses by bridging, to regain a standing position. The weights were announced as Forsyth 210 pounds, Grandovich 220.

 Ottawa, July 22.—(By Jean Logan, Canadian Press Writer).—The immense ballroom of the Chateau Laurier, the foyer and balcony were used yesterday evening to accommodate guests of the Dominion government at the dinner to Imperial Conference delegates, members of the Canadian House of Commons and Senate, members of sister parliaments and privy councillors. The wives of all of these were present. The tables were attractively arranged to form wings of which there were eleven. Nile green cloths were used and on each table were candelabra and single silver holders each with lighted ivory tapers. The only flowers used were zinnias.

NOTTINGHAM LACE
 The Prime Minister and his sister, Mrs. W. D. Herridge, received the guests in the reception room, which was massed with variegated summer flowers. Mrs. Herridge was charming in a gown of old blue Nottingham lace made over white satin and pale blue chiffon. It was high waisted and made decollete, and had a belt of the lace with each end. The skirt flared toward the hem and formed a short train. With this gown Mrs. Herridge wore shoes to match and sapphire and diamond ornaments.

FORMER TENNIS STAR "BROKE"

New York, July 22.—The strong brow of Molla Bjurstedt Mallory that once flashed an unbeatable tennis racket before the eyes of applauding galleries at international tournaments, now will hold up the gingham and silk jersey of low-priced sport dresses under the gaze of petulant women shoppers.

For Molla Bjurstedt Mallory is broke. The bright gleam of her fame as a many-time women's tennis champion has dimmed. And to make enough money to keep the wolf from coming up the elevator to the door of her apartment, she is going to start a little dress shop here.

A few weeks ago, she said, she was fired from her job as a saleswoman in a New York department store.

"I guess I wasn't so much of a drawing card as they hoped I'd be," she said. "You're so soon forgotten."

A knee injury which she received in a taxi accident may keep her ever from returning to the tennis courts. The same accident has left her husband, Franklin Mallory, a broker, unable to work for the last year.

One day she called to see her old school friend Jean and poured out her troubles. "My dear," said Jean, "keeping a house orderly and systematic is not such a terrible task; even wash day is not a thing to dread. Don't worry so much about it. There is nothing complicated about it. I'll tell you what I do.

Explains Wash Day Secret!

"First use a good soap. I'd advise you to use the brand I always buy—Pearl White Naphtha. You'll find it a good practical laundry soap and a lot more economical than most. Then soap your clothes well and put them to soak overnight in cold water. You will find that, as the water temperature rises to the heat of the room, more dirt is loosened than would be if the water were cooling. In the morning, rinse your clothes thoroughly in warm water and you'll never need have any more trouble with your wash."

Thousands of women have learned this valuable laundry secret. Get the Pearl habit yourself—Pearl means efficient work in less time and at less cost. That's something to remember these days.

LEAD-YEAR BRIDE
by Laura Lou BROOKMAN

"Oh, so you're the sort of girl who thinks appearances are more important than anything else? Well, what's wrong about you driving my car?"

What, indeed? Somehow Cherry couldn't answer the question. Pearson had just given her a delicious lunch. She could not offend him.

"I'll do it," she agreed. "It's certainly very kind of you."

He told her the name of the garage and where it was located. "One of the boys will drive the car out for you," he assured her. "They're darned obliging. That's the reason I keep it there. How about using it this afternoon?"

She told him she could not. She had left the apartment in a hurry and there were a dozen things to be done. Suddenly the thought of the kitten.

"Poor little Pinky," she murmured. "He'll be starved. Oh, I'll have to go right away."

Pearson looked at his watch. "Time for me to be getting back, too," he agreed.

They walked down the street a block together. Cherry thanked him for the luncheon and said good-by. She was smiling as she boarded the street car. "I was wrong about Max Pearson," she told herself. "He only wants to be friendly and helpful. Oh, it's going to be wonderful to have a car to drive again!"

True to prediction, Pinky was feeling neglected when Cherry arrived home. He came running toward her and his slightly unstable legs, meowing as loudly as his little lungs would allow. Cherry picked him up, filled a saucer with milk and watched the kitten's clumsy efforts to drink the milk and at the same time wade in it.

She told Dan that evening about lunching with Pearson and about his offer to loan her the roadster.

"Darned nice of him!" Dan told her. "Didn't I say Max is a prince?"

"But do you really think I should, Dan?"

"Why not? Max would be hurt if you refused. Of course it's all right. Cherry was silent for a minute. Then she said, "He told me something else to-day. Max thinks you can write. I mean short stories—or a novel, maybe."

"Did Max say that?"

Cherry nodded eagerly. "I've been thinking about it all afternoon and I'm going to help by having everything out. I mean short stories—or a novel, maybe."

"Did Max say that?"

"Did Max say that?"

Cherry nodded eagerly. "I've been thinking about it all afternoon and I'm going to help by having everything out. I mean short stories—or a novel, maybe."

Cherry read the manuscript. It was little more than a character sketch, a conversation between a taxi driver and a lunch counter attendant in a cheap, open-air night place. Gus, the driver, had opinions on many subjects and seemed to be something of a hero to his friend. Their conversation was terse, colloquial, and much of it Cherry could not understand. There were vague allusions to underworld activities.

She read on. Pearson was right about it. Dan did have an original way of putting things. She came to the fourth page and there the narrative broke off in the middle of a sentence.

"But, Dan!" Cherry exclaimed, "this is interesting! Why didn't you finish it? I want to know the rest!"

Philip appeared in the doorway, made a gesture of disdain. "Oh, I'm sick of the thing. Tear it up!"

Cherry folded the sheets hurriedly and put them away. There was no more writing that day or the next. Late Wednesday afternoon Cherry was summoned downstairs. She cried out at sight of the man who was waiting in the hallway.

CHAPTER XXV

He was a young man wearing a chauffeur's uniform. Cherry caught sight of him before she had reached the foot of the stairs and rushed forward.

"Martin! Is anything wrong?"

The young man hesitated. "Dr. Knowles sent me, Miss Cherry," he said. "He said I should bring you some. It's your mother. She's been sick all week and to-day—"

"Mother! You mean—oh, Martin, you don't mean—you don't mean it's serious?"

"All I know is you're to come at once," the chauffeur told her gravely. "The doctor's been there since morning. He said—"

The last words were lost as Cherry went flying up the stairway. She called over her shoulder, "Just a minute! I'll be right back!"

It was scarcely longer than that until she was stepping into the big Dunbar limousine. Martin closed the door after her and took the wheel. They spun around a corner and the car's speed increased. Martin, the perfect chauffeur, was driving more recklessly than Cherry had ever seen him.

"Still it was not fast enough. 'Can't we go faster?' Cherry urged. 'There was no answer. The big car was certainly traveling above the speed limit. Cherry covered in one corner mumbled formed themselves into a sort of prayer. Mother—hurry—must get well—save her—save her!'

They echoed through the girl's brain. Mother—hurry—must get well—save her—save her!

The car whirled into another street. They were half way there now. A truck, heavily loaded, was coming toward them. It swerved suddenly to avoid another vehicle and Martin barely kept the fenders of the limousine from brushing against it. Cherry, in her corner, did not even notice what had happened.

She was telling herself that things like this could not happen. Only two weeks before—that was all it had been—that she had been in the hospital. The one with the cheque. There was something in that letter about not feeling well.

Vaguely, Cherry remembered the words. "The last month has been a strain. Day and night I worry about you." Her mother had written that. "She's worried over me," the girl thought bitterly. "It's because of what I've done that she's ill. If she dies it will be my fault!"

Not. She could not go on thinking such things. She did not dare to. Cherry pressed both hands to her temples. She closed her eyes and tried to tell herself that in just a little while now she would see her mother and know that everything was going to be all right. Her mother had never been seriously sick before. Of course she would recover!

They had reached Sherwood boulevard. There was less traffic and the limousine was going faster.

SIDE GLANCES
By George Clark

Familiar houses, buildings Cherry had passed hundreds and hundreds of times, faded past. There was the little drug store. There was Marshall's brick house. Another minute and they had turned into the drive before Briar-top.

Cherry had one hand on the door as the chauffeur halted the car. She was outside and half way to the door before Martin had climbed from his seat.

The door opened and Cherry almost plunged into the arms of a woman in cap and apron.

"Martha! Cherry exclaimed. "How is she?"

"Thank the good Lord you've come, Miss Cherry," the servant answered devoutly. "I said all along they should send for you—"

"But how is she?" the girl begged. Martha brushed her eyes with her handkerchief. She shook her head. "The doctor's upstairs," she said. "He won't let any of us in the room with her. You'll have to ask Dr. Knowles."

She put the handkerchief to her eyes again. Cherry ran swiftly up the stairs. A nurse in a white uniform was coming out of Mrs. Dixon's room.

"I'm Cherry," the girl said. "I've come to see Mother—"

The nurse shook her head negatively. "I'm sorry," she said. "The doctor is with Mrs. Dixon. He's given instructions that no one is to be admitted."

"But Dr. Knowles sent for me!"

The nurse made a signal indicating quiet. "Yes, I know," she said in a hushed voice. "I'll tell him you're here. A little later perhaps you can see your mother. The slightest excitement just now would be dangerous. You'll have to excuse me—"

The girl shut her eyes in agony. Her hands, twisted into fists, pounded together. "Oh, God!" the girl prayed desperately, "make her get well! Don't let her die, dear God!"

She felt a hand on her shoulder and looked up. Sarah O'Fallon was standing beside her.

"There, darlin'," Sarah whispered gently, "don't take it so hard!"

The girl buried her face in Sarah's apron. Suddenly she leaped long and low, slipped down her face. Cherry wept quietly, her shoulders shaking with the deep sobs. She had never faced death before. She had scarcely thought about it. Now, in the face of this terrible experience, she was realizing how deep had been her love for her mother. Happy times in her childhood, when she had been so close to that big house her mother had brought.

"I can't—bear it—Sarah!" she cried. "I can't—bear it—Sarah!"

The older woman murmured reassuringly. Cherry's weeping continued, gradually becoming quieter.

They heard door open and close. Cherry looked up and saw Dr. Knowles coming toward them. She arose.

The doctor nodded. He said, "Good afternoon, Cherry. Glad you're here. Shall we go where we can talk?"

He motioned toward Cherry's own bedroom farther down the hall. The girl followed, dabbing at her eyes to dry them and clutching to Sarah.

"Why won't anyone tell me how she is, doctor?" she begged. "Why don't you let me see my mother?"

"Don't be hysterical. You're letting your feelings run away with you."

"But, doctor—"

"You must be a very sick Cherry," the doctor went on. "It's best to face the facts. For years she's gone on believing she was in good health while all the time this condition was coming on. It's her heart."

He stopped at the stricken look on the girl's face. "We're not sure how serious this may be," he went on slowly. "A little while ago she dropped off to sleep. That's why I gave orders she wasn't to be disturbed. It's the first sleep she's had in forty-eight hours. Perhaps it will save her. I sent for you, Cherry, because—well, I thought you'd want to be here."

"Of course! Oh, doctor, surely you can do something! You must—do something! Is anything happening?"

"We're doing everything possible," he assured her. "I've had two specialists here for consultation. She has splendid nurses. I'm sure that everything in our power will be done to bring her to a speedy recovery."

"Doctor," Cherry faced him directly, "you're just—just—saying these things to make me feel better. You really believe she has a chance?"

BETTIME STORY
Uncle Wiggily's Water Gun

(By HOWARD R. GARIS)

Once upon a time, when Uncle Wiggily was hopping around in the garden, he met Baby Bunty.

"Hello," called Mr. Longears to the little orphan rabbit.

"Boo hoo!" answered Baby Bunty.

"Why, you are crying!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily.

"Ye-yes, I am crying, Uncle Wiggily," replied Baby Bunty.

"What for, Baby Bunty? Why are you crying?"

"Cause I haven't got a water gun," she replied. "Jingle has a water gun, and so has Jangle and Buster and Custer and Muster. But they won't any."

"I also made one for myself," said Mr. Longears. "I hope they will work all right."

"Boo hoo! Boo hoo! Boo hoo!" cried Baby Bunty. "I hope we see somebody to squirt at. That's the best fun of all."

The two bunnies hurried to the duck pond and there something happened. I'll tell you what in the next story, which will be about Uncle Wiggily and the Weasel. And I hope the teapot doesn't catch cold when it cuts a slice from the cake of ice to make a sandwich for the canary bird."

Colwood

Arrangements for a garden fete at Halsey Park on August 10, to be held by courtesy of Mrs. James Dunsmuir, were made by the Colwood Women's Institute on Wednesday afternoon. The proceeds will be divided between the Orphan Children and community betterment. Dances by pupils of Miss Florence Clough will feature the programme, and it is hoped to have a large attendance.

Afternoon tea, to be served, and tickets will be for sale for the drawing of a comforter being made by the members of the institute. The following conveners were appointed: Afternoon tea, Mrs. Harry Parker; receipt of custom, Miss Kelly; ice cream, Mrs. Ed. Shields and Mrs. C. Carnegie; music, Mrs. Harry Parker; heating arrangements, Mrs. J. Martin; help, Mrs. Pat Parker; tea tickets, Miss Caroline Godfrey; comforter tickets, Mrs. A. Godfrey; Scotch dancing, Mrs. E. Wihart; transportation and publicity, Mrs. Frank Hughes.

Miss C. Wilkinson, captain of the Colwood company of Girl Guides, wrote acknowledging a donation and supplied a report of the membership in British Columbia of the League of Nations, special mention being made of the institutes which were affiliated.

A donation was made to the Salvation Army by the Colwood company of Girl Guides, and a speaker will address the September meeting.

Miss Kelly, president, read an interesting paper on the life of Mrs. George Black.

Sweet peas and clarkia centred the table presided over by Mrs. C. Carnegie and Mrs. Pat Parker.

Mrs. C. G. M. Piercy, "Nick-awa," have recently had as guests Alderman and Mrs. Lewis Sangster and family of New Westminster.

Mr. and Mrs. Le Verne Le Huquet and family of Victoria are spending two weeks' holiday as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Le Huquet, Moodyville.

Mr. and Mrs. McConnell and family of Victoria are spending the summer at their cottage at the beach.

Clifford Simons of Victoria is spending a holiday with Mrs. Levy and family, Moodyville.

Mrs. Johnston and Miss Margaret Johnston, Brentwood, have returned home after a holiday spent in Vancouver.

"What are we going to do?" asked Bunty.

Uncle Wiggily twinkled his pink nose and said: "I have an idea, Bunty. First of all we'll buy two rubber balls."

"They're easy to get," said Bunty. "I saw some in the cat lady's toy store. But it takes more than a rubber ball to make a water gun, Uncle Wiggily."

"I know it does," said the rabbit. "But let's first get the rubber balls. When he had bought two of these Uncle Wiggily made the holes in them a little larger with his knife. Then he hopped to the field and picked two long, hollow dandelion flower stems. He stuck dandelion stems in the holes of the two rubber balls, fastening them in place with some sticky gum from a pine tree."

"Now we have our water guns, Bunty," said Uncle Wiggily, giving one to the little orphan rabbit.

"Aren't they cute!" she murmured. "But we must find some water so we can try them."

"Yes," agreed Uncle Wiggily. "Water guns aren't much use without water. We can go to the duck pond."

"Come on!" cried Bunty. "Oh, what fun were going to have! You're so good, Uncle Wiggily, to make me a water gun."

"I also made one for myself," said Mr. Longears. "I hope they will work all right."

ARTHUR WINS
MAIN MATCH

Uses Airplane Spin to Take
Winning Fall From Ray
Ryan; Higami Is Winner

Picking up his opponent for an airplane spin and body slam, following a mix-up with the referee, Ernie Arthur, Victoria, gained the winning fall over Ray Ryan, Los Angeles, in the main event of yesterday evening's wrestling card at the Tiliueum gym. The third and deciding fall came in the fifth round. In the semi-windup Tetsura Higami took two out of three falls from Ray Ryan, Kentucky. In the local preliminary Crump won two straight falls from Gardiner.

The end of the main event came as a distinct surprise to the large crowd. The opening fall was seen in the third round when Arthur used flying tackles and an airplane spin to pin Ryan's shoulders to the mat. In the fourth Arthur attempted to use the tackle again but Ryan fooled him and took the tying fall with a body hold.

SWINGS ON REFEREE

Early in the fifth round Referee Richardson attempted to pull Arthur and Ryan apart to warn the former for hitting with his fist. Ryan swung on the referee and laid him low with a blow to the stomach. Richardson got to his feet and started to mix it with Ryan and Chief of Police Heatley stepped into the ring to stop the trouble. But Arthur put an end to the affair by picking Ryan up and throwing him for the deciding fall.

In the semi-windup Meyers took the first fall in the second round when he pinned Higami with an arm stretch following a series of whip wristlocks. Higami secured the second fall in the third round with a ju jitsu hold on Meyers' neck. In the fourth Higami repeated the hold to secure the winning fall. At the end of the match Higami was forced to work on Meyers' neck to bring him around.

Exercise May Be Harmful To Those With Kidney Ills

Muscular Activity Makes Heavy Demand on Blood

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

It long has been recognized that exercise places extraordinary demands on the human tissues, particularly if the exercise is long continued, perhaps to the point of exhaustion, or if it is done at such a rate as to tax severely the accommodation of the body.

Years ago it was recognized that there might be occasions in which albumin would appear in the excreted fluid, or urine, without the presence of Bright's Disease or any actual inflammation of the kidney. It was found as long ago as 1904 that constant standing in one position might cause the sudden appearance of albumin.

It occurred to investigators in the University of Wisconsin that there must be some basis for the failure of the kidney, revealed in this manner. They, therefore, studied forty-seven women who had indulged in physical exercise such as riding a bicycle, running around an indoor track or working on a rowing machine.

In some 15 per cent of cases there was albumin in a sample of fluid before the beginning of the exercise which apparently did not increase greatly after exercise and, in fact, was reduced in some instances. On the other hand, 87½ per cent of those women who had no albumin before exercise developed the appearance of albumin after exercise.

During exercise there is a marked elevation of the pulse pressure, an increase in the rate of the circulation and a shutting of the blood from the interior of the body to the active muscles and the skin.

Muscular exercise stimulates the metabolism, or chemical interchange in the body, and at the same time produces heat. If the exercise is severe enough the amount of heat produced may exceed the amount of heat usually lost by the body and, as a result, the temperature rises.

Ordinarily there is a balance between the amount of activity carried on by the kidneys and by the skin. When large amounts of water are being lost through the skin such as occurs during exercise, the kidneys become relatively inactive.

When the exercise stops the balance in the temperature is re-established at a lower level, the pressure falls and the circulation is sluggish until sufficient time elapses for a re-establishment between the blood pressure at the time of the heart beat and after the exercise is long continued, during the period of the heart beat, the acids accumulate in the cells of the kidney; then when circulation is restored to normal, the albumin escapes.

Apparently, therefore, exercise does produce extraordinary conditions in the kidney and is therefore, especially harmful to people whose kidneys are unable to bear excess strain or not up to standard and consequently changed conditions.

Screen Lawyer
Needs No Degree

By ROBERT GRANDON

PAUL CAVANAUGH quit the law after going broke at Monte Carlo

Spotted Charley (Wottamouse) Butterworth in wordy confab with two First National directors to-day in the Brown Derby.

"What're you up to, Charles, me lad?" I asked as he passed me. "Pulling out a legal form and waded it," said Charley, "or signing a Dietrich-Sternberg trust."

"Neither, Bob," he replied. "Just settling a moot point or two. Did I? What a question! . . . Why, son, I drew that contract myself!"

Then I recalled . . . Charley is a graduate lawyer . . . practiced for a time, in fact . . . and he draws all of his own contracts . . . At that, he's only one of many of the gang that studied law . . . Ralph Morgan and Weidon Heyburn practiced for some time too.

Harvard . . . dear old Harvard . . . heads the list . . . Phillips (Old Timer) Smalley read his Blackstone there and emerged with a sheepskin, only to throw it aside for a stage part . . . Paul Power claims the same alma mater, and Grant Mitchell prepared there but went to (Hold Em) Yale for his post-grad work and legal studies.

George (Wottam) Walsh secured his legal education at the University of Fordham and Georgetown. Willard Robertson learned the difference between a writ and a tort at the National University of Law in Washington . . . Bob Armstrong studied at the University of Washington, and Regis Toomey and Richard (seats) Gallagher imbibed law at Pitt . . . but all three were lured away to become actors before they completed their studies.

Albert Conti has been admitted to the bar . . . Clive (Gentleman) Brook studied in England, while Percy Marmon assimilated legal wisdom at St. Ambles, Redhill, Surrey, England . . . God bless it . . . Paul Cavanaugh graduated from Cambridge and was a practicing barrister until, after many adventures, he went broke at Monte Carlo and turned to the stage.

But the outstanding fact of all is that none of these well equipped legal luminaries have been called upon to enact the part of a lawyer in the screen where their intimate knowledge of the intricacies of court procedure has been required.

Ricardo Cortez and Irene Dunne at Empire in "Symphony of Six Million"

Charged with intimate drama and laid in New York's colorful background, a new and powerful film written by Fannie Hurst is being shown at the Empire Theatre to-day.

The picture is RKO-Radio's "Symphony of Six Million," co-featuring Ricardo Cortez and Irene Dunne in a romance of self-sacrifice and love. Directed by Gregory La Cava with the same sweep and magnitude which distinguished the original story by Fannie Hurst, the film truthfully reflects the stern background East Side and takes a clinical interest in the lives of a Ghetto doctor and a teacher of the slums.

The film is replete with vivid acts of East Side streets, hospital operating rooms and the free clinics which minister to the ailments of the unfortunate poor of a big city.

Ricardo Cortez, who plays the role of the doctor, is seen in a sympathetic characterization for the first time in four years. The suave villain of the screen is transformed into an idealistic type.

Mrs. Dunne presents a noble high-minded type of American womanhood.

C. Aubrey Smith, who played the title role in the Marion Davies film, "The Bachelor Father," plays a bachelor again in Radio Pictures' mystery drama, "The Perfect Alibi." Smith, who is the victim of the nefarious plotters in this unusual film, adds his subtle charm to a cleverly developed plot.

Armetta walks in the same gliding manner on and off the screen unless his wife nudges him to be more orthodox at some exclusive dinner party.

One of the longest scenes on record, technically known as a "space shot," was filmed for "Cock of the Air," the Howard Hughes production now at the Playhouse Theatre. In this scene, an Italian carnival is filmed with moving cameras, mounted on perambulators, with one of the most exquisite effects ever obtained photographically. Chester Morris plays the title role in "Cock of the Air," which is a United Artists picture.

Once in a long while a motion picture is produced which admits of no criticism. Universal's tremendous drama of war on the Italian Front, "The Doomed Battalion," which opened an engagingly yesterday evening at the Capitol Theatre, is that kind of a picture.

The story deals with a beautiful friendship between a mountain guide and an Italian soldier. The Italian gentleman which is cemented by the perils of many Alpine climbs. Suddenly the World War arrives not only to part them but to place each in opposing mountain companies, contesting for a vantage peak. This tense situation develops when military orders force the Italian to attempt an ambitious climb of his friend's detachment by blowing up the top of the mountain. Suspense runs high right up to the thrilling climax.

One of the largest practical "properties" ever constructed for motion pictures was completed recently for Paramount's "Thunder Below," now being shown at the Dominion Theatre, with Tala Birell and Charles Bickford, Paul Lukas, Eugene Palette and Ralph Forbes featuring.

It is a fifty-foot tropical raft, used in jungle sequences. Built of logs, it is in two sections, both of which are roofed with palm leaves. One portion is constructed as a crude sleeping quarters for a party of exploring engineers and is enclosed with mosquito netting. The other is a floating stable for donkeys.

The whole raft is propelled with huge native oars and steered by a similarly crude rudder. It was constructed by workers in the studio property department for use on one of the many streams at the 2,700-acre Paramount ranch forty miles north of Hollywood.

QUASH MOVE OF IRISH SENATE

Free State's Upper House Suggestion of Abolishing New Stamp Duty Killed

Dublin, July 22.—President Eamon de Valera of the Irish Free State announced when the Dail specially convened this afternoon the government would not accept the Senate's recommendation to the bill empowering imposition of duties on British goods, in retaliation for the new British duties.

The Senate recommended deleting the first section of the bill, which deals with stamp duties on documents used in transactions. As the measure is a money bill the Senate cannot amend it, and it is expected to become law almost immediately.

Despite protests from the opposition, the speaker announced the discussion on the Senate's action would be cut short. Patrick McGilligan, former Minister of External Affairs, asserted the section in the bill which the Senate wanted to delete sought to attack insurance companies with headquarters in the Free State. One of the largest insurance concerns operating in the Free State has its headquarters in Canada, he added.

U.S. and German Teams Break Even in Opening Singles of Davis Cup Play

Stade Roland Garros, Paris, July 22.—Germany and the United States broke even to-day in the first two matches of their inter-zone Davis Cup final. Ellsworth Vines, Wimbledon and American champion, defeated Hansi Frenn, ranking German star, 6-3, 6-3, 6-6, 4-6, after Gottfried von Cramm, Germany, had won the opening match from Frank Shields.

The defeat of Shields was an upset. Von Cramm, steady-styling player, outplayed and out-thought the tall American youngster.

After Von Cramm had won the first set and led 4-1 in the second Shields changed his style of play, rushed the net and won the set, but Von Cramm won the next set, after trailing 4-3.

John Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison, United States doubles pair, will meet a German combination, as yet unnamed, in doubles play to-morrow. Vines meets Von Cramm Sunday while Shields plays Frenn.

Chan Sam of Esquimalt Elects Speedy Trial By Judge Lampman

Charged with possession of opium on June 20 at a cannery in Esquimalt, Chan Sam appeared before Judge P. S. Lampman this morning in County Court chambers and elected speedy trial without a jury.

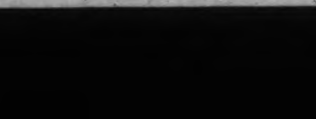

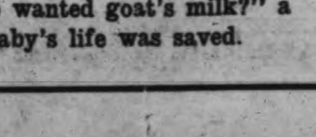

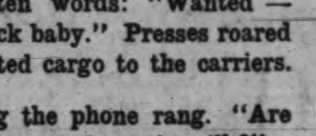

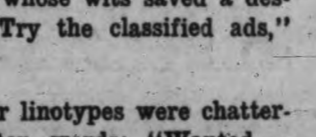

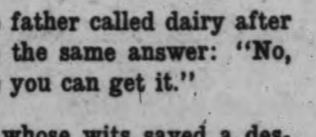

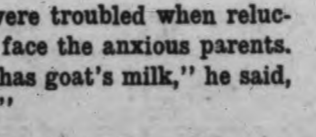

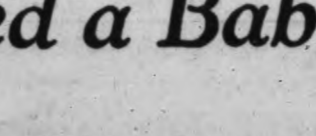

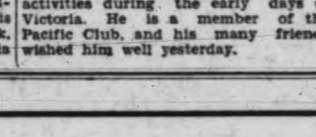

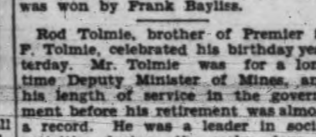

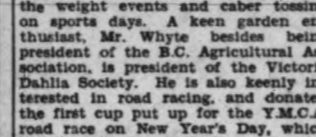

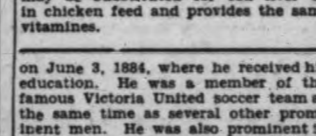

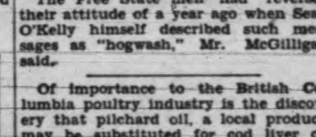

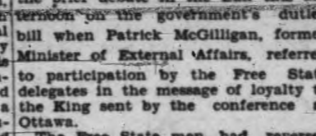

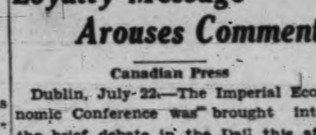

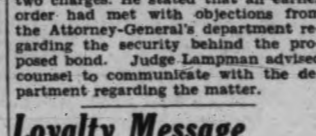

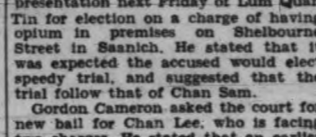

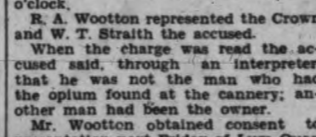

The trial will take place Friday at 11 o'clock.

R. A. Woolton represented the Crown and W. T. Straith the accused.

When the charge was read the accused said, through an interpreter, that he was not the man who had the opium found at the cannery; another man had been the owner.

Mr. Woolton obtained consent to presentation next Friday of Lum Quan Tin for election on a charge of having opium in premises on Shelbourne Street in Saanich. He stated that it was expected the accused would elect speedy trial, and suggested that the trial follow that of Chan Sam.

Gordon Cameron asked the court for new bail for Chan Lee, who is facing two charges. He stated that an earlier order had met with objections from the Attorney-General's department regarding the security behind the proposed bond. Judge Lampman advised counsel to communicate with the department regarding the matter.

How a Classified Ad and a Goat Saved a Baby's Life!

The doctor's eyes were troubled when reluctantly he turned to face the anxious parents. "Unless your baby has goat's milk," he said, "the child may die."

In frantic haste the father called dairy after dairy. Everywhere the same answer: "No, I don't know where you can get it."

It was the mother whose wits saved a desperate situation. "Try the classified ads," she urged.

A few minutes later linotypes were chattering out their molten words: "Wanted—Goat's milk for a sick baby." Presses roared and shot their printed cargo to the carriers.

Early next morning the phone rang. "Are you the people who wanted goat's milk?" a voice asked. The baby's life was saved.

Although Victoria was not the locale of this story, it is a true one. Surprisingly, no less than eight persons responded with offers of goat's milk for the baby whose life depended on it.

Some day you may be in need of an unusual commodity or service. Then the knowledge will be of value that you can find it through a "Wanted to Buy" ad in The Times. Even for ordinary purchases you will find this way an advantage because it saves you money.

Senior Amateur Ball Clubs Stage Closest Race in Years

Catcher Bowden Gets Action From Webster

Leo Holden Appears to Have Lost His Fine Early Season Form

Johnny Burnett Gets Lucky Break to Set Major Baseball Mark

VICTORY of the Elks on Wednesday night over the Green Mill in their Senior Amateur Baseball League battle has made the race for the city championship one of the closest in years.

There were several interesting sidelights on Wednesday's game. Tommy Bowden, Elks' catcher, apparently figures he has to keep riding Webster in order to make him pitch his hardest. Throughout the entire game Bowden kept up a running chatter at his pitcher, and he must know what he is doing as the "other" worked smoothly. And then again it shows Bowden is in the game all the time. Bowden got the fans down on him when the questioned umpire McGregor's decision on the play where Minnis threw his glove in the air at Dunne's drive. McGregor ruled for an extra base, but after Bowden had argued the point and had secured the support of Eddie Newman, Green Mill manager, McGregor sent Dunne back to first. Bowden smiled up at the fans as he returned to his position behind the plate.

Pat Steele, Green Mill first baseman, occupying the coaching box in the first inning when his team got away to a three-run lead, had plenty of pep and vigor, and his banter at members of the Elks was amusing. But what happened to his voice after the Elks went into the lead? He must have left it on the bench.

Art Minnis and Jack Morgan returned to the Elks' line-up for the first time in league competition. Although he has been out of the line-up for some time, Minnis pulled off two nice plays. He still has lots of speed, a good arm and is dangerous at the plate. Morgan at a lucky break in that not a single ball was knocked down his way. After they regain their baseless legs Minnis and Morgan should add to the strength of the defending champions.

After burning the league in his first few appearances, Leo Holden appears to have lost some of his early season pitching form. In his last two appearances against the Elks Holden has had a string of walks chalked up against him, and also a number of wild pitches. Morgan at a lucky break in that not a single ball was knocked down his way. After they regain their baseless legs Minnis and Morgan should add to the strength of the defending champions.

Red Bannion, Green Mill shortstop, has a peculiar style at the plate. He bats left-handed, and he has the appearance of being a right-handed hitter. We wonder if the other side of the plate is not his proper position?

Management of the Elks for the next three weeks or so will be in the capable hands of Norm Forbes, back hurler of the club, who has been ordered to take a month's rest owing to a strained ligament in his shoulder. Walter Lorimer, regular pilot of the team, will be out of the city. Forbes is a hustler and the boys will have to dig in and play ball if they are going to satisfy him. He made his appearance in the first base coaching box Wednesday evening, and all the time it could be clearly seen he was just itching to get into the game.

Johnny Burnett isn't the best hitter in the American League. He isn't the worst either. He's just the luckiest, right or left-handed batter in the American or National League. One day under fortune's benign smiles was enough to give the young Cleveland shortstop a world record in baseball. It will remain a record at least until another batter with more luck than Johnny's comes along. It may stand for all time. Burnett belted nine hits in eleven times at the plate in the marathon game recently between the Indians and the Philadelphia Athletics. The game lasted eighteen innings.

Johnny opened his lucky day with a smash that was too hot for Second Baseman Dibs Williams to handle. He was back in the second base line to left and again in the fourth with another one-baser to left. In the fifth he pulled one around to right field for a double. He opened the seventh with his fifth straight hit, a single to right, and then ended his streak and the inning at the same time by fanning for the third out.

Starting anew in the ninth, Burnett again handcuffed Williams with a single. He whaled into one in the eleventh that lacked only a pound or two of being a home run. It struck high on the right field screen and dropped back for a two-bagger. His eighth hit was a single to centre in the thirteenth. His ninth, and the fourth straight in his second run, was a single to right in the sixteenth inning. Then the bubble burst. Centre-fielder Haas camped under his long fly in the seventeenth.

Picked To Capture Every Track Event From 1,500 Metres

Larva, Loukola, Lehtinen, Oshollo, Mattelin and Toivonen Rated Almost Sure Winners in Coming Games; 1,500 Metres Event Expected to Be Classic With Beccali, Italian Sensation, Lovelock, New Zealand, and Thomas, England, Picked to Provide Serious Competition for Finns

By ALAN GOULD

Los Angeles, July 22—Except that the pursuit may be more varied and interesting, there appears scant prospect of any combination of talent strong enough to prevent Finland from taking most, if not all of the Olympic running honors from 1,500 metres up to and including the classic marathon.

CREWS READY FOR REGATTA

Shawnigan Oarsmen Prepared For Visit of J.B.A.A. Men on Saturday

Sea Flea Races and Softball Game Also Included in Programme For Meet

Shawnigan Lake oarsmen, with their eyes set on chief laurels in the annual regatta at their lake on Saturday, have been working out consistently in the hopes of taking James Bay Athletic Association crews into camp in races scheduled for the day. They have developed into good competitors and may give the Victoria boys a good run for their money, according to latest reports from up-Island.

A feature of the regatta will be sea-flea races for some of the fastest on the island. Both Shawnigan and Nainimo drivers are listed for the different events which should prove exceptionally interesting to the big crowd expected to see the meet.

The course has been mapped out in such a way that spectators may follow the progress of the races from the start to the finish.

Following the water events Y.M.I. softballers, winners of one of the city leagues, will play the Shawnigan Lake team in an exhibition.

The gala day will be drawn to a close with a dance in the Shawnigan club hall.

JOE WRIGHT IS EN ROUTE

Champion Sculler Leaves For Olympic Games Despite Fight Over Expenses

Is Accompanied to California By Wife and Parents; Will Meet Bob Pearce

Sarnia, Ont., July 22—Joe Wright, Toronto, Canada's number one sculler, is en route to the Los Angeles Olympic Games to-day despite his announcement he would not represent the Dominion unless his expenses were paid by the Olympic committee.

Smiling as happily as anyone of the Olympic troops who boarded the Toronto-to-Los Angeles special at Hamilton yesterday evening, the champion oarsman, former winner of the diamond sculls, was accompanied by his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wright Sr., his parents.

Wright will row in the single sculls as a challenger to the supremacy of Bobby Pearce, giant Australian, who won the Olympic title in 1928.

Joe's private fight with the Olympic committee followed the ruling that $100 only could be contributed toward the expenses of scullers on the team. As he boarded the train yesterday evening Joe wasn't saying how the balance of his expenses to the games would be met.

Wright had to hurry here from the St. Catharines, Ontario, to catch the special, along with the track and field contingent, and other scullers named to match strokes with the best of other nations.

The Anglo-Saxons have sent some star millers to this Olympic party, including Lovelock, New Zealand; Thomas, England; Hollowell, Crowley and Cunningham, United States.

Poland has one of those rarities, a conqueror of Paavo Nurmi, in Ejan-nus Kusanoff, candidate for long distance honors. Canada, Argentina, Japan and Germany have sturdy-limbed men for the routes, especially in the marathon.

Yet about all most of them will get during the tenth Olympiad will be a rear view of the flying Finns.

Even without counting on the eminent Nurmi, the Finns have prospective and probable winners in Harry Larva, 1,500-metre champion; Toivo Loukola, steeplechase champion; Lauri Lehtinen, record-breaking youngster; Volmar Oshollo in the 5,000 and 10,000-metre runs; Mattelin and Toivonen in the marathon. If Nurmi is ruled out of the event he has fitted himself for especially.

Count de Ballet-Latour, president of the International Olympic committee, world governing body of the modern Olympic games to be staged here July 30 to August 14, will lend his dignity to the placidly calm classic with his arrival to-day.

It is Count de Ballet-Latour who will take his position in the tribunes of Saturday's scheduled calls for the opening day, second only to Vice-President Curtis, who will officially open the games.

Heading the list of to-day's arrivals will be Brazil's team of thirty-one athletes and some fifteen odd officials, who will arrive on the Ss. Itaque, laden with coffee to be sold in the United States to help pay the expenses of the team.

Other arrivals expected to-day include the United States women's track and field team of thirty-six, and a party of Swiss athletes and officials.

At the count now stands some 1,500 athletes already gathered here, although all are not housed in the Olympic village.

The club sent an invitation, through authorities in Los Angeles, to European swimmers to compete in an exhibition gala in the city on their way home following the games. The invitation will be given to those stars who are using one of Canada's transcontinental railways for their journey to Europe.

In their message to the outstanding contestants, the local members pointed out the splendid facilities for a gala in the city, noting the Crystal Garden was second to none on the continent for the staging of such a meet.

Although the action was taken by the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club yesterday evening, it will undoubtedly be met with the support of all aquatic organizations of the city.

During the meeting yesterday evening a special vote of thanks was moved by R. W. Hiberson, president of the Victoria Amateur Swimming League, to George I. Warren, president of the club and publicity commissioner, for his energetic work in securing the trials for Victoria. Fred Ellison, club coach, seconded the motion. Messages of appreciation were also drawn up for A. H. Cowlishaw, manager of the Crystal Garden, for his cooperation in staging the meet and his assistance in giving competitors the use of the pool for practicing.

Hazel Wright, V.A.S.C. breast stroke swimmer, who placed third in the Olympic trials in Vancouver, was congratulated on her good showing and the other members of the club were praised for their gallant races.

Considerable discussion took place over the possibility of changing the club's name to avoid confusion with that of the Vancouver Amateur Swimming Club.

Victoria Amateur Swimming Club Makes Bid For Post Olympic Exhibition

Would Have Continentals Perform on Return Journey to Their Homes

Victoria may see another water meet of a standard as high as that of the Olympic trials last Monday if negotiations opened by the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club at its meeting in the Crystal Garden yesterday evening are carried through.

The club sent an invitation, through authorities in Los Angeles, to European swimmers to compete in an exhibition gala in the city on their way home following the games. The invitation will be given to those stars who are using one of Canada's transcontinental railways for their journey to Europe.

Veteran McManus Improves Boston With Youngsters

Larry Boerner, His Latest Rookie Find, Held Yankees to Two Hits in Seven Innings Yesterday, as Red Sox Defeat New Yorkers 3 to 2; Washington Regains Fourth Place in American; Pittsburgh Wins Lone National League Fixture to Increase Lead

Boston Red Sox are showing distinct signs of improvement under the guidance of Marty McManus.

They still do not look like a pennant threat, but there is no doubt McManus has made progress since he relieved a discouraged Shauno Collins last month. He is depending upon a set of youngsters to pull the Sox out of the ruck.

Larry Boerner, a rookie who yesterday held the New York Yankees to two hits in seven innings, is his latest find. As well as he hurried yesterday Boerner has yet to receive credit for a big-league victory. Old Willy Moore went the last two frames, in which the Sox came from behind to win 3 to 2.

Washington Senators regained fourth place in the American League by beating Detroit, 5 to 4, in their final.

St. Louis Browns broke their losing streak of eleven straight when Walter Stewart pitching himself a four-hit game, defeated the Philadelphia Athletics, 5 to 3. Goose Goslin smacked two doubles and two singles in leading the Browns' attack.

In the National League's only engagement, the pace-setting Pittsburgh Pirates scored in the last of the ninth to beat the Phillies, 3 to 2, and increase their lead to two and one-half games.

Pittsburgh, July 22—Captain "Pie" Traynor and Lloyd Warner, two of the Pirates' "crisps," returned to the Pittsburgh line-up yesterday and celebrated the event by getting together in the ninth innings to score the run that beat the Phillies, 3 to 2. The victory was Pittsburgh's second in the five-game series, and enabled the Bucs to increase their National League lead to 2½ games, as all their other rivals were idle.

The struggle was not settled until two were out in the last half of the ninth. Then Traynor, who played the full game after an absence of two weeks because of an injured finger, broke the spell with a single. The younger of the Warner brothers, taking his only time at bat, smacked a double into left centre to bring home the winning run.

Up to the seventh the game was a magnificent pitching duel between Remy Kremer and Jim Elliott.

Philadelphia, July 22—The St. Louis Browns broke their losing streak of eleven in a row by taking the first encounter of the five-game series here, with the Athletics yesterday, 5 to 3. Stewart held the Mackmen to four hits. He allowed only one hit in the first seven innings, and halted a two-run rally in the eighth by causing Fox to pitch into a double play with two on base.

Washington, July 22—Washington regained fourth place in the American League yesterday by trimming the Detroit Tigers, 5 to 4, in the closing game of the series. Monte Weaver settled down after a shaky first inning, in which Detroit scored three runs. He gave up nine hits, four in the first, but kept them well apart after that. The Senators rallied once in the second, and collected two more in each of the fourth and fifth innings. Wyatt went the route for Detroit, allowing three runs in the sixth to tie the series of five games, winning the first three.

JOKERS WIN IN PLAY-OFF

With Lloyd Jones covering himself with glory by pitching a no-hit no-run game the Jokers defeated Ross Bay 10 to 6, in the first game of the best two out of three play-off, for the championship of the Westhollow Softball League, at the Stevenson Memorial Park yesterday evening. The second game of the series will be played on Monday night at 6:30 o'clock at Victoria West Park.

Jones, a smooth working sawpaw, was in rare form and Ross Bay batters were helpless against his fast curves and speed balls. He was given great support by his teammates. Stark started on the mound for Ross Bay but was chased to the showers late in the game in favor of Palmer.

In the fifth inning Richard clouted a home run for the Jokers with two men on the bases.

The score by innings follows: Jokers..... 1 0 0 2 3 0 1 0 3-10 Ross Bay..... 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0-6 Batteries—Jones and Banks; Stark, Palmer and Clark.

Hard-fought Matches Feature B.C. Clay Court Tennis

Young Don Budge And James Kinney In Surprise Win

Brilliant California Junior and Partner Turn in Fine Victory Over John Murio and Freddie Shimura, Second Seeded Team in Men's Doubles; Murio and Prusoff, Defending Champion, Gain Semi-finals in Singles; Favored California Women Meet Stiff Opposition

Vancouver, July 22.—Favored players from the United States countered real opposition yesterday for the first time in the C. clay court championships at the Jericho Tennis Club but most of it was furnished by their own countryfolk. However, the seeded contestants in nearly every case made their way into the semi-finals.

Prusoff managed to get one break in the service in each set, however, to win 7-5, 6-4. George Sparling, Jericho, who took a set off Budge when they met in the Western Canadian, got only three in the service in the first set, 6-4. Budge then struck a snag and drop out of the running. This young Donald Budge fellow, the Oakland junior who has been polishing off star Vancouver players right and left, figured in the semifinals of Shimura and Murio. He shared with James Kinney to chalk up a surprising 7-5, 6-2 win over last week's B.C. championship finalists. The other upset was furnished by John Milne, slim young Vancouver champion, who downed Theo. Smith in Francisco, in a bitter struggle. The scores were 9-7, 3-6, 6-4, with Milne outlasting her southern rival.

FAVORITES PRESSED
Both Murio and the defending champion, Hank Prusoff, Seattle, had real tests in their quarter final singles matches. Murio met a fellow-Californian, Elmer Griffin, and only took the first set after eighteen games, lost the second at 6-7, and outlasted his less speedy rival in the final canto to win 6-1. Brilliant backhand "get" by Griffin featured this most interesting match. Prusoff came up against Griffin's doubles partner, Martin Kennedy, whose hard serving and fine volleying and the champion in difficulties.

CHAMPION BOXERS Beaten in Trials

San Francisco, July 22.—Victims of spectacular upsets, three national champions were eliminated yesterday evening in quarter-finals of the trials to select the U.S. Olympic boxing team.

The titleholders who fell by the wayside were Peter Dalesandro, Washington, Pa., intercollegiate ruler in the 112-pound class, and the two 118-pound kings, Jimmy Martin, New York, who holds the National A.A.U. top rating, and David Stoop, Altoona, Pa., first in the national intercollegiate rating.

Dalesandro lost the decision to James Perrin, New Orleans. Martin was edged out by Joe Lang, San Francisco, and Stoop bowed to the south-paw superiority of Joseph Centorino, Batavia, N.Y.

YOUNGSTERS SEEK TITLE

Number of Up and Coming Youths Will Enter Canadian Amateur Golf Championship

Toronto, July 22.—A rising band of young golfers who have shown an utter disrespect for par and experience in Canadian tournaments this season promise strong defence of Dominion titles from the invasion of foreign stars in years to come.

The current season has been noteworthy for the number of budding big leaguers who have fought to the top flight of the Dominion.

Potential first-runners, from fourteen years up, have been bubbling to the top of the tourney pot. The most sensational pair stole the spotlight in the western Ontario Public Golf Association championships a week ago when Ray Neale, fourteen-year-old Windsorite, and L. B. Russell, Londoner of the same age, marched home in front of a field of ninety-nine laurel seekers.

Neale took the title with cars of 75-77, the latter round card compiled in a driving rain and thunder storm. Russell was on his heels with 76-78.

RETIRED COMING STAR
On the ladder of years Bobby Reith, seventeen-year-old Manitoba open champion, stands next. Knocking at the door leading to the Manitoba championships the past three years, Bobby has reached the semi-finals each time, and this year annexed the open title.

In the first round of the 1932 amateur title-bunt, Wednesday, he shot an 84 under weather conditions that knocked far more experienced players into the 90 class. Reith was back of Danny Stack, twenty-one-year-old, who led with 77, and Bud Donovan, nineteen, and Ernie Palmer, twenty, each with 79.

Ottawa golf's domain is now ruled by a high school student, Frankie Corrigan, slim, eighteen-year-old, carded 76-77 Wednesday to take the Ottawa and district title over a field of eighty-four.

And the reign of youngsters stretches down into Nova Scotia, Jack Harris, who is twenty, and from Wolfville, scored 298 in the seventy-two-hole provincial chase this week to lift the crown from a field including most of the Maritime's best.

Most of these mahle students are expected to be in the scramble over the Lambert course here August 8 to 13 when the Canadian amateur king will be enthroned. A hot time would seem to be in store for the comparative veterans.

With an unbroken string of victories behind them, Wanderers, leaders in the Victoria and District Cricket League, will make a great bid to keep their record unblemished when they face the Incogs in the feature fixture on tomorrow's schedule at Mount Talmie.

In the two other league fixtures on the cards, Cowichan will meet Victoria at Cowichan and the Albions will play at Bescan Hill. All matches will be league games and will start at 2:15 o'clock.

Although they have not yet made any great challenge for the leadership of the division, Incogs are recognized as an exceptionally hard team to beat on a good day. Several of their players are among the best in the city, some being leaders in the provincial field.

Should they hit their stride at Mount Talmie to-morrow, the Wanderers will have to show all the skill and power they have displayed in keeping the

Late Rally Brings Fractional Gains In Wheat Market

Winnipeg, July 22 (Canadian Press).—Wheat market was a strong one today, wheat overcame a fractional slump at the opening to close 1/4 higher to-day.

July closed 1/4 higher at 54 1/2 and 58 1/2, respectively.

The market was a drab affair during the early phases. Following a decline at the opening traders appeared to be content to hold aloof and wait for a lead from "outside." Chicago took the initiative after mid-session and the market here responded with a smart rally.

Weakness at the start was attributed to a disappointing Liverpool cable and a lack of export demand. Offerings thereafter were on the light side. With the aid of an upturn in the market to the south and firmness in United States stock markets, prices moved fractionally over the levels of the previous close.

Exports of what from the southern hemisphere were again light with ship-owners holding back as the result of unfavorable crop conditions. Russia reported winter wheat crop conditions on July 10 mostly average. No mention was made of spring crops, but it is reported drought exists in these areas.

Slow trade featured cash wheat and coarse grains with prices generally unchanged.

To-day's Grain Markets

WINNIPEG

(By Logan & Bryan)

Winnipeg, July 22.—Wheat: Another dull featureless day in wheat. So far as export business was concerned the market was flat, there being no business worked overnight and nothing came in this morning. Prices were drab during the first part of the day with prices sinking 1/4 to 1/2 under last night. Later in the day Chicago took on a stronger tone, prices advancing 1/4 to 1/2 over last night's close. The upturn part was due to a smart rally from Chicago, stated their strength was due to fear buying for eastern account, and to an upturn in the stock market. Winnipeg followed the upturn part was due to a smart rally from Chicago, stated their strength was due to fear buying for eastern account, and to an upturn in the stock market. CHICAGO

(By Logan & Bryan)

Chicago, July 22.—Wheat: Buying became more active after midday, and prices advanced more than 1 cent from early low with final figures best of the day. There was buying credited to the east. Reports from Ottawa that the Canadian and British governments had agreed there was no chance of Canadian wheat being given any preference in the United Kingdom also has some effect. Firmness in the stock market also was a helping influence. The winter wheat hedging is fair on the bulge, but the market is able to take care of these rather easily. Local receipts as well as primary arrivals are moderate compared to last year.

Spring wheat reports were a little more encouraging, and with moderating temperatures no serious damage is considered likely. Wheat is ripening rapidly in parts of Canada, there also will be an early harvest. Liverpool closed 1/4 to 1/2 lower, being steadied by the small Argentine exports, which were 302,000 bushels. In other sections many months' Australian exports were light at 1,634,000 bushels. The market action suggests that pressure on weak spots will be limited, and that support seems to be in evidence on set-backs. Favor buying side on recessions.

The cash market was extremely quiet again to-day, with practically nothing changing hands, there being no demand. Spreads on the straight grades were unchanged except for No. 3 northern, which was 1/4 off, while spreads on the durums were 1/2 off. There was some foreign bidding in the market, but about 1/2 out of line. Liverpool closed 1/4 to 1/2 lower, and Buenos Aires was unchanged at midday. Canada's carryover of wheat this year is expected to be around 145,000,000 bushels, although official figures may be slightly lower as they usually are. Country marketing of wheat in the west yesterday 187,000 to 202,000 bushels a year ago. Winnipeg closed 1/4 to 1/2 higher.

Coarse grains: Firmer except July oats, which lost part of the bulge yesterday. However there was very little going on. There is some inquiry for barley and rye, but no export business could be confirmed. Pressure continues very light. Oats closed 1/2 off to 1/2 up, barley 1/2 to 1/2 higher and rye 1/2 to 1/2 higher. Flax closed 1/2 to 1/2 higher.

Liverpool due 1/4 to 1/2 higher on Winnipeg.

BOYS COMING FROM ENGLAND

Lord Nigel Douglas-Hamilton Here Making Arrangements For Educational Tour

Lord Nigel Douglas-Hamilton, Edinburgh, younger son of the thirteenth Duke of Hamilton, is at the Empress Hotel now in connection with a Canadian tour of about thirty English schoolboys to be undertaken this fall. The tour which Lord Nigel is planning is the ninth organized under the Public School Empire Tour Committee and is designed to give first-hand knowledge of the empire to English young people.

The boys, who come from big English public schools like Charterhouse, Eton, Harrow, Lancing and Westminster, will probably arrive in Victoria at the end of August and stay here three or four days.

Lieut.-Col. J. D. Hills, assistant master at Eton College, will be director of the party and W. D. Davies of Radley College, now an officer in the 60th Rifles, will accompany him. Lord Nigel returned to-day on his way to meet the boys on their arrival at Montreal, August 5, and will come across Canada again as a member of the party.

OBJECT EDUCATIONAL

The object of the tour is primarily educational; there can be no better education than an English schoolboy has than a visit to one of the Dominions," says Lord Nigel. "His imagination, outlook and sense of proportion are broadened, and he is brought into direct contact with the realities of imperial history, geography, politics, and economics. Some of the boys may make their homes in Canada; others, in due course, may undertake work in Parliament or some branch of public service at home. For them the knowledge and experience gained on the tour will be of inestimable advantage, enabling them to approach various problems with sympathetic understanding and with a sense of the realities of the empire."

"The boys are looking forward with the keenest interest to meeting those descendants of their own ancestors who have at various times left England to build their great overseas empire, and whose adventurous spirit they have always regarded with envious admiration. Perhaps, too, Canadians will be glad to welcome these representatives of one of the oldest institutions of the empire."

Other tours have been to South Africa, direct, Australia and other parts of the British Dominions.

Floodlight Jail To Prevent Escapes

La Mott and Company, New Westminster, were awarded the contract for exterior fence lighting at Okalla jail, it was announced to-day by the Department of Public Works. Their bid, the lowest of nine received, was $2,257. Completion of this work will render it much more difficult for prisoners to escape, the jail premises being completely surrounded by floodlights.

Awake All Hours of Night With Eczema. Healed by Cuticura.

"I was troubled with an itchy, burning feeling on my hands. Then eczema broke out in watery blisters on my finger and later it spread all over my hands. All hours of the night I was awake with the pain and irritation. When my hands touched water I just screamed with pain and for two years my hands were a disgrace. My fingers were swollen and out of shape, and tormented me."

"My mother read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample of each. We purchased more and after using two boxes of Ointment and one cake of Soap I was healed." (Signed) Miss Zelma Cooke, St. Joseph, Nova Scotia.

Director Optimistic On Rotary Future

J. H. Beatty, Victoria Leader, Looks For Better Year Than Anticipated

Gives Local Members Resume of Annual Board Meeting in Chicago

Rotary will achieve greater success during the current year than its leaders anticipate, in the opinion of James H. Beatty, M.P.P., international director, who addressed members of the local club on the recent annual international board meeting in the Empress Hotel yesterday. His prediction was made in spite of the fact that the international group is looking for a loss of 10,000 members throughout North America.

In the course of his address he told

J. H. BEATTY
International Director of Rotary

his fellow clubmen there were several hopeful signs on the club horizon. He had been very favorably impressed with the broadminded views of the directors at the Chicago meeting, he said. The international body would have no big objective for the year. It was content to carry on with its general aims owing to present conditions, he continued.

Oration For John Nelson

Giving a resume of the mechanics of the international board, Mr. Beatty spoke of the preliminary meeting in Seattle where John Nelson, former Victorian, was given a wonderful oration on his appointment to the important position he now holds.

He spoke of the splendid feeling which prevailed at the meeting in Chicago. All the directors had taken a world view of Rotary without partiality to various fields.

The speaker sketched the personnel of the board, paying tribute to the men on it. He was particularly warm in his praise of Clinton Anderson, the president.

In his opinion Rotary International would be much more successful during the year than many of the leaders believed.

CANADA WELL REPRESENTED

Canada had been very well treated in the appointment of important officials. Through the election, the Dominion was well represented by very able men.

The 1934 International Rotary convention would probably be held in Detroit, Mr. Beatty said. Particular emphasis would be laid on the economic studies of the organization in the future, he continued.

Details of the Rotary fund of $5,000 or $6,000, the nucleus of a sum to purchase a new home for Rotary, were sketched. Present quarters in Chicago were not satisfactory. A suggestion had been raised that the organization build up a home in a suburb of that city, he said.

Final classifications in the mid-Asiatic membership had been studied in some detail, he continued, explaining that both white and colored professional men in the same lines of business but not in competition, desired to join the same clubs.

A mobile Rotary secretary had been approved for the middle Asiatic countries, where a man of some experience and great tact would be given the office.

PROFIT ON CONVENTION

The report of the convention manager at Seattle had shown a profit of $5,000 from the big gathering in the Sound City, Mr. Beatty stated, saying it was a remarkable achievement in view of the losses sustained by other cities in staging the international convention.

Closing, Mr. Beatty touched upon some of the leading personalities in Rotary and spoke highly of Paul Harris, founder of the movement.

George McGregor, president of the local club, thanked the speaker for his address and submitted a motion conveying the congratulations of the Victoria Club to Seattle for the splendid way in which that city had conducted the recent gathering. His motion was carried.

More Sumas Lands May Be Dyked

Marginal lands immediately east of the Sumas Lake reclamation area, may be dyked, it was learned at the Parliament Buildings to-day.

This action is being considered by the Public Works Department as a result of the flooding of the Vedder River Canal, which connects the Fraser River with the Vedder. Construction of this additional dyke would cost approximately $10,000. It was stated, and would give protection to lands on which the province holds notes amounting to over $200,000, owed by purchasers of small tracts in the reclamation area.
